Morning Oregonian

PORTLAND, OREGON, FRIDAY, MAY 5, 1876.

locomotives will be in [illegible] diness at various points to provide [illegible] contingencies. Six thousand railroad [illegible] will line the route to guard the way. The ticket of stacking silver and limited to [illegible], sold for the round trip, will outfit the passengers to board on the train and a week's board in San Francisco, price, $500. A [illegible] of the London Times will be a p[illegible]ger.

[illegible] of the Annual [illegible] of the New York C[illegible] of Co[illegible].

NEW YORK, May 4.—At the annual [illegible] of Chamber of Commerce to-day, Samuel B. Ruggles, from [illegible] reported that in view of the great deterioration in the value of silver, it having been reduced in market price fully 12 per cent. within [illegible], and in consequence of the [illegible] heavy production of that metal, that the Director of Commerce recommend Co[illegible] to call a convention of the [illegible] of all nations to [illegible] the monetary value of silver coin by the [illegible] weight; the report was adopted.

[illegible] by [illegible].

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—A man named Crawford was stabbed and instantly killed to-day, by Jas. [illegible] the son of Crawford and [illegible] when the father interfered and [illegible], who in turn drew a knife and plunged it into the neck of Crawford. [illegible] The [illegible] was 40 years old and leaves a family.

Gold and Stocks.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Gold, 112¾@⅞. Money dull, 3½; governments dull and steady; stocks active but [illegible] W. U., 68¼; quicksilver, 18½; Pacific, 19½; Mariposa, 7; Wells, Fargo, 80½; N. Y. Central, 110; Erie, 14¼; Panama, 129; Union Pacific, [illegible]; bonds, 101¼; Central Pacific bonds, 106⅝.

WASHINGTON CITY.

[illegible]

NEW YORK, May 4.—The World's Washington special says M[illegible] explanation to-day was dispassionate and candid. The mode in which the money in question was used may still be [illegible] fended; but it does not [illegible] that a single [illegible] clung [illegible] to Morton. Soon after the explanation, Morton was taken ill and had to be [illegible] home.

[illegible] Trial.

The main argument in the impeachment trial, as to the question of jurisdiction, comes up to-morrow and will at least continue through Friday, as both sides [illegible] to occupy six hours. The order of speakers has been arranged as follows: Blair will [illegible] for the respondent and will be followed by Lord, who will open for the managers. Knott will follow Lord, unless Black desires to speak immediately after Lord; Jenks and Hoar will then follow, Hoar closing for the managers, and Carpenter for the respondent. To-night the managers are fully confident of their ability to convince the Senate that it has jurisdiction in the premises. In the various researches they have discovered much stronger authority in support of their position than they expected, and Lord, who has been very diligent in looking up authorities, will present the counsel for Belknap with some very hard legal nuts to crack on his opening to-morrow.

Cotton Frauds Investigation about Ended.

The sub committee on expenditures in the treasury department, which investigated the cotton bureau, has about completed its examination of Clarkman Brooks' cotton claims, and will be ready to report thereon in a short time. The inquiry has been thorough, and leaves no doubt in the minds of any member of the committee as to the character of the claim. It is covered with fraud from the beginning to the end, and Roddy & Brooks had no title whatever to the money paid them, some seventy odd thousand. They were already indebted, and the notes to secure the same were in the possession of treasury officials. If the award had been an honest one, the amount would have been put to the credit of the government and indorsed on the the claimants' note.

Davenport and His Vouchers.

The World, summarizing its Washington correspondence, says Davenport is of a very accommodating disposition. The committee was not satisfied with his vouchers, and he came to New York and returned to Washington yesterday with a lot of new ones. The great trouble with them is that they don't go back further than 1873, while they are supposed to account for money given him in 1871 and 1872.

Cheever's Testimony.

The Times' Washington special says: The committee on expenditures in the navy department to-day examined Cheever, who claimed to have a budget of startling information in reference to the transfer of the navy department's foreign account from the Barings to Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. This is the same man who figured so ingloriously in a suit against the estate of Henry Clews, for a percentage of profits from their foreign business, [illegible] he claimed he was entitled to for his influence in securing them the government deposits on [illegible] accounts of the State Department. Cheever gave [illegible] committee a great deal of trouble, and a detective was on his track for two weeks before he could be found. When the detective did finally capture him, Cheever's expenses were paid to Washington and he came on only to ask the committee to allow him to return to refresh his memory by reference to some books and papers around which he threw a great deal of mystery. The request was [illegible], he went away, and it was given out he had gone to Europe to keep from making [illegible]. The committee sent for him [illegible], and after [illegible] sufficient notoriety, he surrendered himself and was brought back to tell the committee after all this expense and trouble that he knew nothing. His testimony to-day was simply that some man had told him that another man had said that some man told him that Mrs. [illegible] had received $80,000 from Jay Cooke & Co. [illegible] influence in [illegible] for the firm the foreign deposits of the navy department. None of his [illegible] was of the slightest value, unless it should lead to the [illegible] of something through [illegible] whose names he has given. The [illegible] do not make public the names of these [illegible] who will be [illegible].

[illegible] to Blaine.

The following is a copy of a letter from lawyer [illegible] written to-day. Its tone and its promises are very serious and threatening, and may lead to an acrimonious and unpleasant controversy. [illegible] The forwarding of the letter for publication [illegible] the deep feeling that prompts the writing:

[illegible] EVENING, May 2, 1876.

HON. J. G. BLAINE: [illegible] Having [illegible] than two years and a half in his grave, had he survived till to-day, you [illegible] He was the [illegible] of my [illegible] father, and as dear to me [illegible] half born and [illegible] of my [illegible] from your [illegible], which I shall do at an early day. No one knows better than yourself that I am moved to this labor solely by my [illegible]. Very [illegible],

A. G. RIDDLE.

[illegible] Farwell.

In the [illegible] was strongly in favor of the [illegible] report and against unseating Farwell. It [illegible] if he had spoken in the House he would have saved his [illegible]. Only five Democrats voted to [illegible] Farwell.

[illegible] of Salary.

The Tribune's Washington special says: The [illegible] civil [illegible] lately received [illegible] to the [illegible] division of salary by Mr. Sweet, pension agent at Chicago, with [illegible] Campbell, Babcock's father-in-law. Miss Sweet has been subpoenaed. The President is said to [illegible] had no knowledge whatever of these [illegible] the publication made in the newspapers last summer. He then sent for Miss Sweet and learned from her all the facts, and ordered her to stop the payments immediately. He also told her that if she did [illegible] them she should not be removed for that reason during the remainder of his administration.

Future [illegible] by Robeson [illegible].

The naval bill [illegible] nearly $5,000,000, and it will be difficult for the Secretary of the Navy to have any money in the [illegible] bill to squander by hundreds of thousands, in converting smooth bores to rifled ordnance through the agency of Norman Wiard, or any other inventor. There will also be less money squandered on improvements of engines and in building new ships of war out of old timber under the appropriation for repairs. The bill pro[illegible] by the sub-committee reduces the number of enlisted men in the navy from 8,000 to 7,500. The rank and file of the marine corps remains undisturbed; but it is provided that the officers, now numbering 102, shall be gradually reduced by casualty of service, such as death, resignation, etc., until there shall be only 75, which shall be a permanent establishment. When a vacancy occurs, it is not to be filled. The present officers are not to be interfered with.

The Public Printer to be Presented to the Grand Jury.

The House committee on printing agreed to recommend that the public printer be presented to the grand jury for indictment on six charges, all consisting of malfeasance in office. The committee decided it has no jurisdiction to impeach a public printer if not an officer of the Senate.

Destruction of Fractional Currency.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The treasury department, officers are led to believe that fully one-third of the outstanding fractional currency has been destroyed and will never be presented for redemption, and that the total amount in existence at this time, is not more than $30,000,000. The basis for this belief is that the total amount of old issues of fractional currency which have been redeemed and replaced by later ones. In paying out silver coin for fractional currency, the amount of these old issues, which has come in, is found to be very limited, justifying the conclusion that fully $10,000,000 have disappeared from circulation, and will not make its appearance at the treasury again.

The Proposal for [illegible] the [illegible]

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The ways and means committee [illegible] to-day the bill of Mr. Wood increasing the amount of the four and one-half per cent. funding bonds to five hundred millions and extending the time to 30 years. No conclusion was reached. It was said in behalf of the secretary of the treasury that he was willing that the amount should be left, as at present fixed, at three hundred millions, but desired that the time should be increased to 30 years. It is probable that it will be modified to this extent.

[illegible] Mine.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Gen. Schenck, before the foreign affairs committee to-day, characterized as an unmitigated falsehood [illegible] in length and breadth and throughout [illegible] the statement made by J. A. Johnson, that he (Schenck) was in a London broker's office during the extreme excitement in Emma Mine shares. In regard to the statements made yesterday by Lyon, Mr. Park pronounced them made out of whole cloth.

[illegible] Currency Theories Refuted.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Piper's speech in the House last night, was a spirited refutation of the irredeemable currency theories lately advanced by Kelley and [illegible] Congress [illegible], and an argument to show that the only feasible plan for returning to specie payments is to reduce the amount of notes now in circulation. He thought an easy and rapid way would be to reduce paper currency to $50,000,000, either by retiring national bank notes or by funding legal tenders, or by carrying on both operations at once. He believed that a proper [illegible] of legal tenders for national bank notes would be desirable for contraction, as it would save the Government a considerable amount of interest. Another means of contraction and resumption advocated by Piper, is to retire the legal tenders by funding, and to allow free banking secured by deposits of government bonds. These free banks, however, should be organized as specie paying institutions with an ample reserve in metallic currency. Under such a system the metallic guarantee of $800,000,000 would allow a circulation of $500,000,000 in paper, which would be sufficient to supply the business wants of the country. One of these plans he believed must finally be adopted, or the country will go from bad to worse, and he insisted that the present is the proper time to make the comparatively trifling sacrifice required for the return to an honest financial system.

Bill to Annex Alaska to Washington Territory.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Senate committee on territories to-day heard arguments from Mitchell, in advocacy of his bill to annex Alaska to Washington Territory as a county. Prof. Elliott, late special agent of the Treasury Department in Alaska was then heard in opposition to the bill, which he condemned as wholly unnecessary.

Fur Seal Investigation.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The sub committee on ways and means, investigating the matter of the lease and management of the fur seal islands, to-day further examined Mr. Hutchinson, of the Alaska Commercial Company, and there being no other witnesses proposed by either party to the controversy, closed the testimony. They will, at their next meeting, hear argument of counsel relative to the action of the Treasury Department in awarding the lease.

Important Land Decision.

In the case of C. B. Selby vs. the State of California, in which application is made in behalf of parties holding title under the State for a rehearing, the Secretary of the Interior has determined to grant such application, and permit additional arguments to be filed in behalf of the State. The Commissioner of the General Land Office has therefore directed to suspend all action under the department's decision of March 10, 1876, in the above case, and directed that no homestead or pre-emption entry be allowed under authority of said decision, upon any lien lands which have heretofore been selected by the State of California as indemnity school sections, and to return the papers, with the appeal to the secretary for re-examination. The decision of this case will affect the title to over 25,000 acres of land in California, which, with their improvements, is valued at several millions of dollars.

Examined by the Grand Jury.

A. S. H. White, Lonsdale and Twitchell, late of the Indian office, Duncan Thompson of the Interior Department, McEwing and J. S. Ross of the Pension Agency, have been examined by the grand jury to-day.

Belknap's P[illegible].

The Washington grand jury in the District of Columbia have agreed upon the presentment against W. W. Belknap late Secretary of War, for the alleged acceptance of bribes in official station.

The presentment of Gen. Belknap is now in the hands of the District Attorney, who will prepare a formal indictment.

Documents Refused.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Glover, chairman of the mines and mining committee, having written to Secretary Chandler for certain papers, the latter replies that owing to directions from the President he cannot comply.

Custer on the War Path.

The Herald's Washington special says Custer will leave here at once to take command of his column, which is to take the field for operations against hostile Sioux. He says the three columns about to start, under a plan of operations directed by Sheridan, will aggregate in numbers about 3,000, while it is said that the Sioux can put 8,000 warriors against them. Some very hard fighting is expected, if not the hardest known.

Determined to be Elected.

Walls, from Florida, recently unseated in the House, will be made postmaster at Key West. He has resolved to be elected to Congress again.

Davenport's Testimony.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Before the committee on expenditures in the Department of Justice, to-day, John L. Davenport testified that he could not produce any particular set of vouchers that would cover the particulars of the twenty thousand dollars received from Whitely, but he could furnish vouchers running from the time he first received any money, in 1872, up to the time he had expended it, in 1874, covering every dollar he received. He produced the vouchers. The committee desired the witness to produce every other voucher in his [illegible], so that he might be able to say to the committee that he had produced every voucher he was able to produce. The committee then adjourned until Tuesday next.

Naval Investigation.

Additional evidence of naval officers, who would naturally make the best showing possible in regard to the efficiency of the service, as taken before the committee on naval affairs, shows conclusively the department managed by Robeson is in a most disgraceful condition, and that opportunities for fraud and spoliation are of the most varied kinds. The committee has had old Commander Aleck Murray before them, and his testimony on some points is quite [illegible]. [illegible] Paymaster General T. A. T. [illegible], the pay [illegible] of the navy is a sort of [illegible] a very irresponsible concern.

Notice of Abrogation of Treaty.

The Tribune's Washington special says: At a cabinet meeting to-day it was decided that formal notice be given to Great Britain of the abrogation of the 10th article of the Ashburton treaty, which relates to the extradition of criminals between the two countries, and it is entirely within the power of the executive department of our own government to give this notice of abrogation without the [illegible] of the Senate. Secretary Fish formally notified the British government this evening of the action of our government.

Bill to Regulate U. P. R. R. Freights.

The House committee on the Pacific Railroad to-day, authorized Representative Phillips to report a bill providing that it shall not be lawful for the Union Pacific railroad to charge a special or greater rate for transportation of freight or passengers over the Omaha bridge than that charged for a like distance over other portions of its road, nor shall it charge other companies more than five dollars for every freight and passenger car and its contents transported over said bridge. And in case of the transportation of coal, salt, grain or lumber, not more than two dollars and fifty cents per car shall be charged to other companies.

In the opinion of the minority of the committee, the enactment of this law or some similar measure is required to give effect to the recent decision of the supreme court that the Omaha bridge should be considered and operated as a part of a continuous line of the Union Pacific road. The committee agreed that amendments may be offered to this bill by several members when it is reported to the House for action.

The committee also took up Culbertson's bill for an extension of time for the completion of the Texas Pacific railroad.

Throckmorton offered a substitute providing that fifty miles of road per annum shall be constructed westward and twenty miles eastward from the respective terminuses.

No action was reached. The committee adjourned to attend the session of the House, and the bill and amendments, therefore, went over.

Naval Appropriation Bill.

Randall and Hale, the sub-committee charged with the preparation of the naval appropriation bill, completed it to-day for submission to the full committee at its next meeting. The bill appropriates $12,730,000 as against about $17,000,000 last year. The reductions are principally in items for bureaus of construction, steam engines and repairs, etc.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Trouble about the Royal Titles.

LONDON, May 4.—In consequence of the dissatisfaction caused by the proclamation giving effect to the Royal Titles act, and which does not limit the use of the title of Empress strictly to India, Sir Henry James will give notice in the House to-morrow that he will move a resolution equivalent to a vote of censure, to the effect that the proclamation does not fulfill the pledges given by the government during the debate on the Royal Titles bill; and, therefore, the vote on the bill was taken under misconception. The Marquis of Hartington will ask Disraeli for an opportunity to discuss the above motion.

The W[illegible] C[illegible].

LONDON, May 4.—In the House of Commons, Edward Temperly Gourley will ask Attorney General Becker if the United States [illegible] protested against the action of the British government concerning Winslow, and, if so, whether America's demands are in harmony with or contrary to the treaty of 1842 and 1870. He will also ask the Attorney General as to what course he will advise the government to adopt for the purpose of [illegible] ing or altering the existing treaties. Pulleston will ask for papers on the same subject.

The Newmarket Race for Two Thousand Guineas.

LONDON, May 4.—The race for two thousand guineas at Newmarket to-day was won by Petrarch, Julius Caesar second, Kaleidoscope third.

A[illegible]

LONDON, May 4.—A Madrid dispatch says the amendment to the constitution rejected by congress yesterday was that in favor of religious unity.

Telegraph [illegible].

A Berlin dispatch says the Austrian government has forbidden the transmission of [illegible] concerning concentration of troops in Croatia and Dalmatia.

[illegible]

The [illegible] reports that Niesic has been revictualed for only three weeks. The insurgents prevented Mukhtar Pasha from completing the work of throwing provisions into the town.

Treasure R[illegible] from the Schiller.

The Herald's cable says the divers have recovered another sum of $8,000 gold from the wreck of the Schiller, making an aggregate of $200,000 saved of the $300,000 shipped on the vessel.

Silver Weaker.

LONDON, May 4.—In consequence of the acceptance of the tenders for India bills at a lower rate than was anticipated, silver is weaker. Quotations have not been made yet, but 53¾d is offered.

Opposition to the Proffered Grant for French Workmen.

PARIS, May 4.—Several deputies have on the strength of documents in their possession expressed their apprehension to the minister that the delegation of French workmen to Philadelphia will carefully devote their attention to politics, and have urged the government to refuse the proposed grant of $20,000 for enabling them to visit the exhibition.

The French, Belgian and Russian members of the Centennial jury will leave Havre to-morrow in the steamer Amerique.

MEXICO.

HAVANA, May 3.—The steamer brings news from Vera Cruz to April 23d as follows: Ala Torrers is at Techuachan directing the campaign in the State of Puebla. The regular troops to the number of 18,000 are operating in the States of Vera Cruz and Puebla and the valley of Mexico. Fifteen thousand are roaming in detached bands through the States of Oaxaca and Vera Cruz. The Puebla and Morelia Railway between Vera Cruz and Mexico continues interrupted; 4,000 Pronunciados are scattered along the line of the road, and they have destroyed 18 of its bridges.

The capture of Matamoras by Diaz is not considered important. The Two Republics, newspaper, says that while the interior States remain faithful, the movement of Diaz will have no influence on the revolution.

Gen. Escabedo, at the head of 5,000 veteran troops is marching against Diaz, who is at Monterey. The defeat of the latter is expected. The government has arranged to prevent him from recrossing the Rio Grande at any point between New Laredo and the mouth of the river.

The prisoners in the Castle of San Juan De Ulloa, Vera Cruz, revolted on the night of April 17th. The small garrison was nearly overpowered, but the revolt was finally subdued and ten of its leaders shot.

There are strong signs of the dissolution of the government, and its best generals are dissatisfied with the campaign, as it has thus far been a failure. The Minister of War blames the President for meddling with military affairs. Money is scarce and provisions rising.

Laerdo is firm and by no means disposed to decline a reelection. He says to yield would be to abandon the constitution.

WEST INDIES.

The Barbadoes Troubles.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Late advices from the Barbadoes announce that the recent troubles there arose from Gov. Hennessy's partiality shown the negroes.

Haytien Insurrection.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Late advices from Hayti state that although President Dominico has fled from Port au Prince, and Gen. Canal has been invited to assume provisional control of the republic, the revolution cannot be considered at an end. The people of the South are in favor of Saloman for the presidency, while the North are for Gen. Canal. The latter will only accept of the presidency in the constitutional way. He will not fight for it. Dominique, during his flight from Port au Prince, while being escorted by the French consul, a son of Mons Piasler Tierro stepped up to him and said: You shall not escape; for I shall avenge the blood of my father whom you [illegible] on the 3d of May, 1875, and presenting a revolver shot him dead on the spot. His body was then thrown out on a dung heap and left unburied for 36 hours.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Over 4,150 tons of coal were shipped from Nanaimo and Departure Bay on Saturday last.

The Colonist says: A party of workmen under a competent superintendent will probably be dispatched to Cassiar, to rebuild the road and bridges, by the California, to sail on the 7th inst.

It is expected that Bishop Kip, of California, and Bishop Morris, of Oregon, will attend the synod of the Episcopal Church in Victoria on the 12th of July, and that Bishop Kip will preach the opening sermon.

The new steamer Reliance made the run from Westminster to Yale and from Yale to Victoria in 23 hours, including time lost in stopping for wood at all the stations and discharging and receiving freight at Yale and Hope. The distance run is 275 miles.

An inquiry was held at Esquimalt by Chas. Todd, Esq., deputy coroner, respecting a body which was found by some Indians while fishing off the church in Esquimalt harbor, close to the spot where a hat was found immediately after the disappearance of the late James Wallace, the Esquimalt mail carrier, a few weeks back. The inquest was adjourned, but enough has transpired to prove that the remains were really those of Wallace.

It is understood that two Canadian Pacific railway survey parties will go out early in May for the purpose of resuming surveys from the interior; that one or two more parties will proceed to Blackwater and operate toward the seaboard; and that a third party will be placed on that portion of the line between Tete Jaune Cache and Fort George. It is also stated that one or more parties will be placed on the line through the Fraser river canyons.

MR. DUFUR AT PHILADELPHIA.

A correspondent writing to a prominent gentleman in this city, from Philadelphia, under date of April 18th, says:

Yesterday I saw Mr. Dufur, and to-day we are to make arrangements for making the necessary cases and shelving for an exhibition of Oregon's products. Wool and woolen goods in main building, minerals in mineral department, and other goods, natural and cultivated products, in agricultural department. From an examination of his list it will be necessary to apply for space in another department, flowers, etc. Mr. Dufur had certainly provided for a very creditable exposition in behalf of Oregon, I am confident, far exceeding that of any other State. He speaks in terms of warmest commendation and admiration of you for the aid and encouragement you have given him, and expressed himself desirous of doing everything to meet your approval, and if possible, excite your admiration. So whatever suggestions you made to him concerning the exhibition will be most faithfully carried out. He says all the cases except one are here, to-day we will try and hunt that up.

Miss Anthony declares that the only class of human beings in the United States man can't argue with to-day is women. "A man," adds Miss A., "can't argue with his wife, his daughter or his own sister. When they commence an argument they get worsted and always end up by exclaiming, 'Oh, nonsense! What is the use of trying to argue with a woman?'"

A London correspondent who obtained a close view of the Queen, says that she is stout, with somewhat of redness in her face, and bids fair to live as long as her grandfather, the third George did; and if she does, the Prince of Wales will be a grayheaded old man, with grandchildren, before he comes to the throne.

Mrs. Logroller, whose husband is a delegate to a political convention, grins derisively at reading that the delegates have been instructed. "Heap of good it'll do to instruct old Logroller!" She says; "I've been instructin' the pig-headed fool for years, and he can't buy a yard of calico with any sense yet."

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Chair laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War inclosing the report of the board of engineers of the Pacific coast in relation to encroachment of the sea upon the site of Fort Stevens at the mouth of the Columbia river; referred to the committee on military affairs.

Conkling said he had been requested to, and willingly did present a number of petitions representing the case of an American citizen now in an English prison, Ed. O'Meagher Condon, who is undergoing a life sentence and has been for eight years imprisoned. His offense was [illegible] at least in its occasion and in the circumstances out of which it grew. His fate had awakened sympathy throughout the country, and aroused a [illegible] of sentiment of which evidence, in part was before him in the petitions which came from twenty-two States and several territories. They were signed by lawyers, legislators and prominent citizens. They asked the intervention of Congress in behalf of this captive. The executive had been assiduous in endeavoring to obtain a mitigation of [illegible]. The House had passed one or two resolutions [illegible] the executive still further [illegible] resolutions were now [illegible] foreign affairs. Now came all these petitions representing such a volume of sentiment and sympathy as rarely came to either House of Congress. He moved that the petitions be referred to the committee on foreign relations, and hoped some good would come of them; referred.

Sargent presented the petition of the publishers, stationers and lithographers of California, remonstrating against the sale by government of stamped envelopes, and paper wrappers and postal cards below cost. Referred to the committee on post-office and post roads.

Morrill, of Maine, presented a concurrent resolution that the two houses of Congress adjourn from Tuesday to Friday of next week, to attend the opening ceremonies of the Centennial exhibition at Philadelphia.

Edmunds moved to amend so as to provide that the adjournment shall be from Monday, the 8th inst to Monday, the 15th inst.

Conkling moved further to amend, to provide that the adjournment shall be from Saturday, the 6th inst., to Monday, 15th inst. After discussion, it was laid over until to-morrow, and the impeachment trial was resumed.

Carpenter, of counsel for respondent, said, if the court wished to adjourn next week as proposed, it would be in the middle of the argument, and he had no doubt it would be more convenient to both sides to have the argument postponed until the reassembling of the Senate.

Manager Lord said the managers would prefer to have a consecutive hearing. If the argument was to be broken by an adjournment, the managers would prefer to have the arguments postponed until the 15th: after discussion the Senate refused to postpone the hearing of arguments by a vote of yeas 22, nays 38.

Blair, of counsel for the respondent, then opened the argument on the question of jurisdiction, and quoted at length from Blount's case in support of his views. He denied the power of the Senate to try on articles of impeachment a private citizen, and quoted from various English works on the subject of impeachment. He contended that several United States judges had resigned their places and impeachment proceedings against them had been stopped.

Blair concluded his argument at 2:35 when the Senate took a recess for 15 minutes.

The Senate upon reassembling, manager Lord replied to Blair's argument, asserting that the Senate had jurisdiction in the case, and in support of his position cited numerous legal authorities. The Senate then adjourned as a court of impeachment, and soon after adjourned as a legislative body.

House.

Soon after meeting the House went into committee on the whole on the postoffice appropriation bill.

Blaine offered a resolution directing the committee of ways and means to consider at once some measure for the relief of the country from the threatened scarcity of fractional currency.

Efforts were made to amend, during which Kelley spoke of the mistake of substituting silver for currency. He said we were getting along well enough. We got some Nevada doctors to physic us by depleting the treasury of a couple of millions of gold every year. What has been said of the first project of this kind now comes to be true, that whenever it was done the people would be without currency; that fools would be made to believe that because it looked white and bright it was valuable, that it was money. It was not silver, it was not money according to the standard dollar. Nobody will allege that it is money. [Laughter.] It is a token; it is not a legal tender for more than five dollars. It is a token coin, debased so that it is not exportable, and yet it is in danger of being exported.

Garfield—Why?

Kelley—Because it is made of a floating commodity [shouts of laughter] I shall object to any extraordinary legislation on the subject. Our legislation ought to be good for a fortnight at a time. [Laughter.] We have submitted the question to Providence, and I am willing to give Providence a month to knock away. By that time it will conclude that we have not a good thing in undertaking to bull the silver market by making fractional change for the people.

Blaine—Nevertheless, I shall ask the House to adopt this very innocent resolution and let it go to the committee; that will be enlightened with all the knowledge of the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Kelley—Yes; but I shall be overshadowed by the folly of all the rest of them. [Laughter.]

Blaine—The gentleman is used to having eleven obstinate jurymen on his financial trial. [Laughter.]

Kelley—Do you not know that he who has the Almighty on his side is in a majority, although he seems to be beaten? [Laughter.]

Blaine demanded the previous question, which was seconded and the resolution adopted.

Mr. Payne then asked leave to [illegible] his bill allowing the issue of silver in exchange for greenbacks, remarking that Blount, who had before objected to it, now withdrew his objection.

Kelley—I object. I think that an act of [illegible] ought to stand for thirty days.

By unanimous consent, a bill was introduced appropriating $1,000 for the expenses of the committee to investigate the federal offices of [illegible] which was passed.

The House agreed to adjourn from the [illegible] the 12th, in order to visit the opening of the Centennial.

A message from the President declining to furnish the House with information as to his absence at various times from Washington was read and received with cool disdain on the Democratic side and with evident enjoyment on the Republican side.

MacDougall [illegible] then offered a resolution instructing the select committee for the investigation of Federal offices in [illegible] to make full and complete investigation of the circumstances attending the assassination of M. H. Twitchell and D. King on Red river, Louisiana, particularly if the case was not of a political character.

Beebe desired to have investigation also in the killing of 2 negroes and the wounding of 3, at the late election at Indianapolis.

Townsend remarked, a [illegible], that the Republicans carried the election and the Democrats killed the niggers.

MacDougall's resolution was a[illegible]. Adjourned.

Message from the President.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The President to-day sent the following message to the House:

To the House of Representatives: I have given very attentive consideration to the resolution of the House of Representatives, passed on the 3d of April, requesting the President to inform the House whether any executive offices, acts or duties, and if any, what, have within a specified period been performed at a distance from the seat of government established by law, etc. I have never hesitated and still do not hesitate to communicate to Congress and to either branch thereof, all information which the constitution makes it the duty of the President to give, or which my judgment may suggest to me, or a request from either House may indicate to me, will be useful in the discharge of the appropriate duties confided to them. I fail, however, to find in the constitution any authority given to the House of Representatives, one branch of Congress in which is vested the legislative power of government, to require of the executive, an independent branch of the government, co-ordinate with the Senate and House of Representatives, an account of his discharge of his appropriate and purely executive official acts and duties, either as to when, where or how performed. What the House may require as a right in their demands upon the Executive for information, is limited to what is necessary for the proper discharge of its powers of legislation, or impeachment. The inquiry in the resolution of the House as to where Executive acts have, within the last seven years, been performed and at what distance from any particular spot, or for how long a period at any one time, etc., does not necessarily belong to the province of legislation. It does not profess to be asked for that object. If this information be sought through an inquiry of the President as to his executive acts in view or in aid of the power of impeachment vested in the House, it is asked in derogation of inherent natural right recognized in this country by the constitutional guarantee which protects every citizen, President as well as the humblest in the land, from being made a witness against himself. During the time that I have had the honor to occupy the position of President of this Government, it has been, and while I continue to occupy that position, it will be my earnest endeavor to recognize and to respect the several trusts and duties and powers of the co-ordinate branches of the Government, not encroaching upon them, nor allowing encroachments upon the proper powers of the authority which the people of the United States confided to me, but aiming to preserve in their proper relations the several powers and functions of each of the co-ordinate branches of the government, agreeably to the constitution and in accordance with the solemn oath which I have taken to preserve, protect and defend that instrument in maintenance of the rights secured by the constitution to the Executive branch of the government, I am compelled to decline any specified or detailed answer to the resolution of the House for information as to any executive official acts or duties, and if any, what have been performed at a distance from the seat of [illegible]

[illegible] any act of Congress which [illegible] limit or restrict the exercise of the [illegible] the executive [illegible] nevertheless recognize the [illegible] of the constitution, and should [illegible] powers required thereby of the President. The act to which reference is made in the resolution of the House, relates to the establishment of the seat of government, and the providing of suitable buildings and the [illegible] thereto of the offices attached to the [illegible]. It was not understood at its date and by those Washington to confine the president, in the discharge of his duties and powers to actual presence at the seat of government. On the 30th March, 1791, shortly after the passage of the act [illegible], Washington issued an executive proclamation, having reference to the subject of this very act, from Georgetown, a place remote from Philadelphia, which then was the seat of government, where the act referred to directed that all offices attached to the seat of government should for the time remain; that none of his successors have entertained the idea that their executive offices could be performed only at the seat of government is evidenced by the hundreds upon hundreds of such acts performed by my predecessors in an unbroken line from Washington to Lincoln. A memorandum of the general nature and character of some of which acts is submitted herewith, and no question has been raised as to the validity of these acts, or to the right or propriety of the Executive to exercise the powers of his office in any part of the United States.

U. S. GRANT.

WASHINGTON, May 4 1876.

It will be [illegible] that the [illegible] is dated Washington without "U. S." and the prefix "Executive Mansion." Accompanying the [illegible] is a memorandum of the absences of the President of the United States from the national capitol during each of the several administrations, and of the public and executive acts performed during the time of such [illegible].

Washington was at [illegible] 181 days and did [illegible] of [illegible] at a distance from the capitol.

John Adams was absent 335 days. Jefferson, 796. VanBuren, 131. Tyler, 163. Polk, 37. Taylor, 31. Fillmore 60. Pierce, 57. Buchanan, 57. No mention is made of the absences of Presidents Lincoln or Johnson.

Proceedings of the Annual Meeting of the New York Chamber of Commerce.

NEW YORK, May 4.—At the annual meeting of Chamber of Commerce to-day Samuel B. Ruggles, from the special committee on currency, reported that in view of the great deterioration in the value of silver, it having been reduced in market price fully 12 per cent. within 12 years, and in consequence of the recent heavy production of that metal, that the Chamber of Commerce recommend Congress to call a convention of the representatives of the world to regulate the monetary value of silver coin by increasing its weight; the report was adopted.

Fatally Stabbed.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—A man named Crawford was stabbed and instantly killed to-day, by Jas. McDermott. An altercation arose between the son of Crawford and McDermott, when the father interfered and kicked McDermott, who in turn drew a knife and plunged it into the neck of Crawford. The murderer was arrested. The deceased was 50 years old and leaves a family.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Morton's Vindication.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The World's Washington special says Morton's vindication to-day was dispassionate and candid. The mode in which the money in question was used may still be questioned, but it does not appear that a single dollar clung improperly to Morton. Soon after the explanation, Morton was taken ill and had to be taken home.

Impeachment Trial.

The main argument in the impeachment trial as to the question of jurisdiction, comes up to-morrow and will at least continue through Friday, as both sides expect to occupy six hours. The order of speakers has been arranged as follows: Blair will open for the respondent and will be followed by Lord, who will open for the managers. Knott will follow Lord, unless Black desires to speak immediately after Lord, Jenks and Hoar will then follow. Hoar closing for the managers, and Carpenter for the respondent. To-night the managers are fully confident of their ability to convince the Senate that it has jurisdiction in the premises. In their various researches, they have discovered much stronger authority in support of their position than they expected, and Lord, who has been very diligent in looking up authorities, will present the counsel for Belknap with some very hard legal nuts to crack on his opening to-morrow.

Cotton Frauds Investigation about Ended.

The sub committee on expenditures in the treasury department, which investigated the cotton frauds, has about completed the examination of ... man Brooks cotton claims, and will be ready to report thereon in a short time. The inquiry has been thorough, and leaves no doubt in the minds of any member of the committee as to the character of the claim. It is covered with fraud from the beginning to the end, and Bodey & Brooks had no title whatever to the money paid them, some seventy odd thousand. They were already indebted and their notes to secure the same were in the possession of treasury officials. If the award had been an honest one the amount would have been put to the credit of the government and indorsed on the claimants' note.

Davenport and His Vouchers.

The World, summarizing its Washington correspondence says Davenport is of a very [illegible] disposition. The committee was not satisfied with his vouchers and he came to New York and returned to Washington yesterday with a lot of new ones. The great trouble with them is that they don't go back further than 1875, while they are supposed to account for money given him in 1871 and 1872.

Cheever's Testimony.

The Times' Washington special says: The committee on expenditures in the navy department to-day examined Cheever, who claimed to have a budget of startling information in reference to the transfer of the navy department foreign account from the Barings to Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. This is the same man who figured so ingloriously in a suit against the estate of Henry Clews for a percentage of profits from their foreign business which he claimed he was entitled to for his influence in securing from the government deposits on foreign accounts of the State Department. Cheever gave Beebe's committee a great deal of trouble and a detective was on his track for two weeks before he could be found. When the detective did finally capture him, Cheever's expenses were paid to Washington, and he came on only to ask the committee to be allowed to return to refresh his memory by reference to some books and papers around which he threw a great deal of mystery. The request was granted, he went away, and it was given out he had gone to Europe to keep from making startling disclosures. The committee sent for him again, and after Cheever had gotten up sufficient notoriety, he surrendered himself and was brought back to tell the committee after all this expense and trouble that he knew nothing. His testimony to-day was simply that some man had told him that another man had said that some man told him that Mrs. Robeson had received $50,000 from Jay Cooke for her influence in securing for the firm the foreign deposits of the navy department. None of his testimony was of the slightest value, unless it should lead to disclosures of something through other witnesses whose names he has given. The committee do not make public the names of these witnesses, who will be subpœnaed.

Riddle's Letter to Blaine.

The following is a copy of a letter from lawyer Riddle to Blaine, written to-day. Its tone and its promises are very serious and threatening, and may lead to an acrimonious and unpleasant controversy. The furnishing of the letter for publication indicates the deep feeling that prompts the writing:

TUESDAY EVENING, May 2, 1876.

HON. J. G. BLAINE—Sir: Having made occasion and prepared means on yesterday from your place on the floor of the House, to assault the reputation of James Walcott Knowlton, then two years and a half in his grave, had he survived till to-day, you would have remained silent, and your Joe Stewarts and McFarlands would have told no tales. He left a widowed mother and two young sisters in Washington and a brother in a distant city. He was the husband of my daughter, and as dear to me and mine as if born and reared one of my family. It devolves upon me to vindicate, as I best may, his memory, from your aspersion, which I shall do at an early day. No one knows better than yourself that I am impelled to this labor solely by my duty to my dead. Very sincerely,

A. G. RIDDLE.

Mr. Lamar Opposed to Unseating Farwell.

In the committee Lamar was strongly in favor of the minority report and against unseating Farwell. It is believed if he had spoken in the House he would have carried his point. Only five Democrats voted to unseat Farwell.

Division of Salary.

The Tribune's Washington special says: The House committee on civil service reform lately received testimony in regard to the alleged division of salary by Miss Sweet, pension agent at Chicago, with Marshall Campbell, Babcock's father in law. Miss Sweet has been subpœnaed. The President is said to have had no knowledge whatever of these payments, until the publication made in the newspapers last summer. He then sent for Miss Sweet and learned from her all the facts and ordered her to stop the payments immediately. He also told her that if she did suspend them she should not be removed for that reason during the remainder of his administration.

Future waste by Robeson made Impossible.

The naval bill saves nearly $5,000,000 and it will be difficult for the Secretary of the Navy to have any money in the present bill to squander by hundreds of thousands, in converting smooth bores to rifled ordnance through the agency of Norman Wiard, or any other inventor. There will also be less money to spend on improvements of engines and in building new ships of war out of old timber under the appropriation for repairs. The bill prepared by the sub-committee reduces the number of enlisted men in the navy from 8,500 to 7,500. The rank and file of the marine corps remains undisturbed; but it is provided that the officers, now numbering 102, shall be gradually reduced by casualties of service, such as death, resignation, etc., until there shall be only 75 which shall be a permanent establishment. When a vacancy occurs it is not to be filled. The present officers are not to be interfered with.

The Public Printer to be Presented to the Grand Jury.

The House committee on printing agreed to recommend that the public printer be presented to the grand jury for indictment on six charges, all consisting of malfeasance in office. The committee decided it has no jurisdiction to impeach a public printer if not an officer of the Senate.

Destruction of Fractional Currency.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The treasury department officers are led to believe that fully one third of the outstanding fractional currency has been destroyed and will never be presented for redemption, and that the total amount in existence at this time is not more than $3,000,000. The basis for this belief is that the total amount of old issues of fractional currency which have been redeemed and replaced by later ones, in paying out silver coin for fractional currency, the amount of these old issues, which has come in, is found to be very limited, justifying the conclusion that fully $10,000,000 have disappeared from circulation, and will not make its appearance at the treasury again.

The Proposal for Increasing the 4 1-2 [illegible]

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The ways and means committee discussed to-day the bill of Mr. Wood increasing the amount of the four and one half per centum funding bonds to five hundred millions and extending the time to 30 years. No conclusion was reached. It was said in behalf of the secretary of the treasury that he was willing that the amount should be left, as at present fixed, at three hundred millions, but desired that the time should be increased to 30 years. It is probable that it will be modified to this extent.

Emma Mine.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Gen. Schenck before the foreign affairs committee to-day, characterized as an unmitigated falsehood—false in length and breadth and circumference, the statement made by J. A. Johnson, that he (Schenck) was in a London broker's office during the extreme excitement in Emma Mine shares. In regard to the statements made yesterday by Lyon, Mr. Park pronounced them made out of whole cloth.

Irredeemable Currency Theories Refuted.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Piper's speech in the House last night, was a spirited refutation of the irredeemable currency theories lately advanced by Kelley and other soft money Congressmen, and an argument to show that the only feasible plan for returning to specie payments is to reduce the amount of notes now in circulation. He thought an easy and rapid way would be to reduce paper currency to $50,000,000, either by retiring national bank notes or by funding legal tenders or by carrying on both operations at once. He believed that a partial substitution of legal tenders for national bank notes would be desirable for contraction, as it would save the government a considerable amount of interest. Another means of contraction and resumption advocated by Piper, is to retire the legal tenders by funding and to allow free banking secured by deposits of government bonds. These free banks, however, should be organized as specie paying institutions with an ample reserve in metallic currency. Under such a system the metallic guarantee of $300,000,000 would allow a circulation of $[illegible],000,000 in paper, which would be sufficient to supply the business wants of the country. One of these plans he believed must finally be adopted or the country will go from bad to worse, and he insisted that the present is the proper time to make the comparatively trifling sacrifice required for the return to an honest financial system.

Bill to Annex Alaska to Washington Territory.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Senate committee on territories to-day heard arguments from Mitchell in advocacy of his bill to annex Alaska to Washington Territory as a county. Prof. Elliott, late special agent of the Treasury Department in Alaska, was then heard in opposition to the bill, which he condemned as wholly unnecessary.

Fur Seal Investigation.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The sub-committee on ways and means, investigating the matter of the lease and management of the fur seal islands, to-day further examined Mr. Hutchinson, of the Alaska Commercial Company, and there being no other witnesses proposed by either party to the controversy, closed the testimony. They will at their next meeting hear argument of counsel relative to the action of the Treasury Department in awarding the lease.

Important Land Decision.

In the case of C. R. Selby vs. the State of California in which application was made in behalf of parties holding title under the State for a rehearing, the Secretary of the Interior has determined to grant such application, and permit additional arguments to be filed in behalf of the State. The Commissioner of the General Land Office is therefore directed to suspend action under the departmental decision of March 10, 1875, in the above case, and directed that no homestead or pre-emption entry be allowed under authority of said decision upon any lands which have heretofore been selected by the State of California as indemnity school sections, and to return the papers with the appeal, to the secretary for re-examination. The decision of this case will affect the title to over 200,000 acres of land in California, which with their improvements is valued at several millions of dollars.

Examined by the Grand Jury.

A. S. H. White, Lonsdale and Twitchell, late of the Indian office, Duncan Thompson, of the Interior Department, Helwing and J. S. [illegible] of the Pension Agency, have been examined by the grand jury to-day.

Belknap's Presentment.

The Washington grand jury in the District of Columbia have agreed upon the presentment against W. W. Belknap, late Secretary of War, for the alleged acceptance of bribes in official station. The presentment of Gen. Belknap is now in the hands of the District Attorney, who will prepare a formal indictment.

Documents Refused.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Glover, chairman of the mines and mining committee, having written to Secretary Chandler for certain papers, the latter replies that owing to directions from the President he cannot comply.

Custer on the War Path.

The Herald's Washington special says Custer will leave here at once to take command of his column which is to take the field for operations against hostile Sioux. He says the three columns about to start under a plan of operations directed by Sheridan will aggregate in numbers about 2,500, while it is said that the Sioux can put 8,000 warriors against them. Some very hard fighting is expected, if not the hardest known.

Determined to be Elected.

Walls, from Florida, recently unseated in the House, will be made postmaster at Key West. He has resolved to be elected to Congress again.

Davenport's Testimony.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Before the committee on expenditures in the Department of Justice to-day John I. Davenport testified that he could not produce any particular set of vouchers that would cover the particulars of the twenty thousand dollars received from Whitely, but he could furnish vouchers running from the time he first received any money, in 1872 up to the time he had expended it, in 1875, covering every dollar he received. He produced the vouchers. The committee desired the witness to produce every other voucher in his possession, so that he might be able to say to the committee that he had produced every voucher he was able to produce. The committee then adjourned until Tuesday next.

Naval Investigation.

Additional evidence of naval officers who would naturally make the best showing possible in regard to the efficiency of the service, as taken before the committee on naval affairs, shows conclusively the department managed by Robeson is in a most disgraceful condition, and that opportunities for fraud and spoliation are of the most varied kinds. The committee has had old Commander Aleck Murray before them, and his testimony on some points is quite interesting.

According to Acting Paymaster General T. A. T. Mough, the pay department of the navy is a sort of personal and very irresponsible concern.

Notice of Abrogation of Treaty.

The Tribune's Washington special says: At a cabinet meeting to-day it was decided that formal notice be given to Great Britain of the abrogation of the 10th article of the Ashburton treaty, which relates to the extradition of criminals between the two countries, and it is entirely within the power of the executive department of our own government to give this notice of abrogation without the assent of the Senate. Secretary Fish formally notified the British government this evening of the action of our government.

Bill to Regulate U. P. R. R. Freights.

The House committee on the Pacific Railroad to-day, authorized Representative Phillips to report a bill providing that it shall not be lawful for the Union Pacific railroad to charge a special or greater rate for transportation of freight or passengers over the Omaha bridge than that charged for a like distance over other portions of its road, nor shall it charge other companies more than five dollars for every freight and passenger car and its contents transported over said bridge. And in case of the transportation of coal, salt, grain or lumber, not more than two dollars and fifty cents per car shall be charged to other companies.

In the opinion of the minority of the committee, the enactment of this law or some similar measure is required to give effect to the recent decision of the supreme court that the Omaha bridge should be considered and operated as a part of a continuous line of the Union Pacific road. The committee agreed that amendments may be offered to this bill by several members when it is reported to the House for action.

The committee also took up Culbertson's bill for an extension of time for the completion of the Texas Pacific railroad.

Throckmorton offered a substitute providing that fifty miles of road per annum shall be constructed westward and twenty miles eastward from the respective terminuses.

No action was reached. The committee adjourned to attend the session of the House, and the bill and amendments, therefore, went over.

Naval Appropriation Bill.

Randall and Hale, the sub-committee charged with the preparation of the naval appropriation bill, completed it to-day for submission to the full committee at its next meeting. The bill appropriates $13,780,000 as against about $17,000,000 last year. The reductions are principally in items for construction of steam engines and repairs, etc.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Trouble about the Royal Titles.

LONDON, May 4.—In consequence of the dissatisfaction caused by the proclamation giving effect to the Royal Titles act and which does not limit the use of the title of Empress strictly to India, Sir Henry James will give notice in the House to-morrow that he will move a resolution equivalent to a vote of censure, to the effect that the proclamation does not fulfill the pledges given by the government during the debate on the Royal Titles bill, and, therefore, the vote on the bill was taken under misconception. The Marquis of Hartington will ask Disraeli for an opportunity to discuss the above motion.

The Winslow Case.

LONDON, May 4.—In the House of Commons, Edward Temperly Gourley will ask Attorney General Holker if the United States has protested against the action of the British government concerning Winslow, and if so, whether America's demands are in harmony with or contrary to the treaty of 1842 and 1870. He will also ask the Attorney General as to what course he will advise the government to adopt for the purpose of upholding or altering the existing treaties. [illegible] will ask for papers on the same subject.

The Newmarket Race for Two Thousand Guineas.

LONDON, May 4.—The race for two thousand guineas at Newmarket to-day was won by Petrarch, Julius Cæsar second, Kaleidoscope third.

Amendment Rejected.

LONDON, May 4.—A Madrid dispatch says the amendment to the constitution rejected by congress yesterday was that in favor of religious unity.

Telegrams Forbidden.

A Berlin dispatch says the Austrian government has forbidden the transmission of telegrams concerning concentration of troops in Croatia and Dalmatia.

Niesic Revictualed.

The Russian telegraphic agency reports that Niesic has been revictualed for only three weeks. The insurgents prevented Mukhtar Pasha from completing the work of throwing provisions into the town.

Treasure Recovered from the Schiller.

The Herald's cable says the divers have recovered another sum of $5,000 gold from the wreck of the Schiller, making an aggregate of $290,000 saved of the $300,000 shipped on the vessel.

Silver Weaker.

LONDON, May 4.—In consequence of the acceptance of the tenders for India bills at a lower rate than was anticipated, silver is weaker. Quotations have not been made yet, but 50 [illegible] is offered.

Opposition to the Proffered Grant for French Workmen.

PARIS, May 4.—Several deputies have on the strength of documents in their possession expressed their apprehension to the minister that the delegation of French workmen to Philadelphia will carefully devote their attention to politics, and have urged the government to refuse the proposed grant of $20,000 for enabling them to visit the exhibition.

The French, Belgian and Russian members of the Centennial jury will leave Havre to-morrow in the steamer [illegible].

MEXICO.

HAVANA, May 4.—The steamer brings news from Vera Cruz to April 24th as follows: Alatorre is at Tehuacan directing the campaign in the State of Puebla. The regular troops to the number of 18,000 are operating in the states of Vera Cruz and Puebla and the valley of Mexico. Fifteen thousand are roaming, in detached bands, through the States of Oaxaca and Vera Cruz. The Puebla and Morelos railway between Vera Cruz and Mexico continues interrupted. Two thousand men are scattered along the line of the road and they have destroyed a lot of bridges.

The capture of Matamoros by [illegible] is not considered [illegible]. The Two Republics [illegible] the movement of Diaz will have no influence on the revolution.

Gen. [illegible] at the head of 600 veteran troops is marching against Diaz who is at Monterey. The [illegible] after is expected. The government [illegible] arranged to prevent him from recrossing the Rio Grande at any point between New Laredo and the mouth of the river.

The prisoners in the Castle of San Juan De Ulloa at Vera Cruz revolted on the night of April 17th. The guard [illegible] was nearly overpowered, but the revolt was finally subdued and ten of its leaders shot. There are strong signs of the dissolution of the government, and its best generals are dissatisfied with the campaign as it has thus far been conducted. The Minister of War blames the President for meddling with military affairs. Money is scarce and provisions rising.

[illegible] is firm and by no means disposed to desert [illegible]. He says he would rather die than abandon the constitution.

WEST INDIES.

The Barbadoes Troubles.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Late advices from the Barbadoes announce that the recent troubles there arose from Gov. Hennessy's partiality shown the negroes.

Haytien Insurrection.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Late advices from Hayti state that although President Domingue has fled from Port au Prince and Gen. Canal has been invited to assume provisional control of the republic, the revolution cannot be considered at an end. The people of the South are in favor of [illegible] for the presidency while the North are for Gen. Canal. The latter will only accept of the presidency in the constitutional way. He will not fight for it. [illegible], during his flight from Port au Prince while being escorted by the French consul, a son of Mons. [illegible] there stepped up to him and said "You shall not escape, for I shall avenge the blood of my father whom you massacred on the [illegible] of May 1875," and presenting a revolver, shot him dead on the spot. His body was then thrown out on a dung heap and left unburied for 36 hours.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Over 1,100 tons of coal were shipped from Nanaimo and Departure Bay on Saturday last.

The Colonist says: A party of workmen under a competent superintendent will probably be dispatched to Cassiar, to rebuild the road and bridges, by the California, to sail on the 7th inst.

It is expected that Bishop Kip, of California, and Bishop Morris, of Oregon, will attend the synod of the Episcopal Church in Victoria on the 12th of July, and that Bishop Kip will preach the opening sermon.

The new steamer Reliance made the run from Westminster to Yale and from Yale to Victoria in 23 hours, including time lost in stopping for wood at all the stations and discharging and receiving freight at Yale and Hope. The distance run is 275 miles.

An inquiry was held at Esquimalt by Chas. Todd, Esq., deputy coroner, respecting a body which was found by some Indians while fishing off the church in Esquimalt harbor, close to the spot where a hat was found immediately after the disappearance of the late James Wallace, the Esquimalt mail carrier, a few weeks back. The inquest was adjourned, but enough has transpired to prove that the remains were really those of Wallace.

It is understood that two Canadian Pacific railway survey parties will go out early in May for the purpose of resuming surveys from the interior; that one or two more parties will proceed to Blackwater and operate toward the seaboard, and that a third party will be placed on that portion of the line between Tete Jaune Cache and Fort George. It is also stated that one or more parties will be placed on the line through the Fraser river canyons.

MR. DUFUR AT PHILADELPHIA.

A correspondent writing to a prominent gentleman in this city, from Philadelphia, under date of April 18th, says:

Yesterday I saw Mr. Dufur, and to-day we are to make arrangements for making the necessary cases and shelving for an exhibition of Oregon's products. Wool and woolen goods in main building, minerals in mineral department, and other goods, natural and cultivated products in agricultural department. From an examination of this list it will be necessary to apply for space in another department, flowers, etc. Mr. Dufur had certainly provided for a very creditable exposition in behalf of Oregon, I am confident, far exceeding that of any other State. He speaks in terms of warmest commendation and admiration of you for the aid and encouragement you have given him, and expressed himself desirous of doing everything to meet your approval, and if possible, excite your admiration. So whatever suggestions you made to him concerning the exhibition will be most faithfully carried out. He says all the cases except one are here, to-day we will try and hunt that up.

Miss Anthony declares that the only class of human beings in the United States man can't argue with to-day is women. "A man," add's Miss A., "can't argue with his wife, his daughter or his own sister. When they commence an argument they get worsted and always end up by exclaiming, 'Oh, nonsense!' 'What is the use of trying to argue with a woman?'"

A London correspondent who obtained a close view of the Queen, says that she is stout, with somewhat of redness in her face and bids fair to live as long as her grandfather the third George did, and if she does, the Prince of Wales will be a grayheaded old man, with grandchildren, before he comes to the throne.

Mrs. Logroller, whose husband is a delegate to a political convention, grins derisively at reading that the delegates have been instructed. "Heap of good it'll do to instruct old Logroller!" She says: "I've been instructin' the pig-headed fool for years, and he can't buy a yard of calico with any sense yet."

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Chair laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War inclosing the report of the board of engineers of the Pacific coast in relation to encroachment of the sea upon the site of Fort Stevens at the mouth of the Columbia river, referred to the committee on military affairs.

Conkling said he had been requested to present, and willingly did present a number of petitions representing the case of an American citizen now in an English prison, Ed. O'Meagher Condon, who is undergoing a life sentence, and has been for eight years imprisoned. His offense was political, at least in its occasion and in the circumstances out of which it grew. His fate had awakened sympathy throughout the country, and aroused a current of sentiment of which evidence in part was before him in the petitions which came from twenty two states and several territories. They were signed by lawyers, legislators and prominent citizens. They asked the intervention of Congress in behalf of this captive. The Executive had been assiduous in endeavoring to obtain a mitigation of sentence. The House had passed one or two resolutions asking the executive still further to interpose, and those resolutions were now before the committee on foreign affairs. Now came all these petitions representing such a volume of sentiment and sympathy as rarely came to either house of Congress. He moved that the petitions be referred to the committee on foreign relations, and hoped some good would come of them; referred.

Sargent presented the petition of the publishers, stationers and lithographers of California, remonstrating against the sale by government of stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers and postal cards below cost. Referred to the committee on postoffice and post roads.

Morrill, of Maine, presented a concurrent resolution that the two houses of Congress adjourn from Tuesday to Friday of next week, to attend the opening ceremonies of the Centennial exhibition at Philadelphia.

Edmunds moved to amend so as to provide that the adjournment shall be from Monday, the 8th inst. to Monday, the 15th inst.

Conkling moved further to amend, to provide that the adjournment shall be from Saturday, the 6th inst. to Monday 15th inst. After discussion, it was laid over until to-morrow, and the impeachment trial was resumed.

Carpenter, of counsel for respondent, said, if the court wished to adjourn next week as proposed it would be in the middle of the argument, and he had no doubt it would be more convenient to both sides to have the argument postponed until the reassembling of the senate.

Manager Lord said the managers would prefer to have a consecutive hearing. If the argument was to be broken by an adjournment the managers would prefer to have the argument postponed until the 15th. After discussion the Senate refused to postpone the hearing of arguments by a vote of yeas 21, nays 38.

Blair, of counsel for the respondent, then opened the argument on the question of jurisdiction, and quoted at length from Blount's case in support of his views. He denied the power of the Senate to try on articles of impeachment a private citizen, and quoted from various English works on the subject of impeachment. He contended that several [illegible] and [illegible] upon [illegible] proceedings against them had been [illegible].

Blair concluded his argument at [illegible] when the court took a recess for 15 minutes.

The Senate upon reassembling, manager Lord replied to Blair's argument, insisting that the [illegible] and in support of his position cited numerous legal authorities. Senate then adjourned as a court of impeachment and soon after adjourned as a legislative body.

House.

Soon after meeting the House went into committee on the whole on the post office appropriation bill.

Blaine offered a resolution directing the committee of ways and means to consider at once some measure for the relief of the country from the present scarcity of fractional currency.

Efforts were made to amend, during which Kelley spoke of the mistake of substituting silver for currency. He said we were getting money well enough. We got some Nevada doctors to physic us by depleting the treasury of a couple of millions of gold every year. What has been said of the first project of this kind now comes to be true, that whenever it was done the people would be without currency; that fools would be made to believe that because it looked white and bright it was valuable; that it was money. It was not silver. It was not money according to the standard dollar. Nobody will allege that it is money. [Laughter.] It is a token. It is not a legal tender for more than five dollars. It is a token coin, classed so that it is not exportable, and yet it is in danger of being exported.

Garfield—Why?

Kelley—Because it is made of a floating commodity. [Shouts of laughter.] I shall object to any extraordinary legislation on the subject. Our legislation ought to be good for a fortnight at a time. [Laughter.] We have submitted the question to Providence and I am willing to give Providence a month to knock away. By that time it will conclude that we have not a good thing in undertaking to bull the silver market by making fractional change for the people.

Blaine—Nevertheless, I shall ask the House to adopt this very innocent resolution and let it go to the committee that will be enlightened with all the knowledge of the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Kelley—Yes, but I shall be overshadowed by the folly of all the rest of them. [Laughter.]

Blaine—The gentleman is used to having eleven obstinate jurymen on his financial trial. [Laughter.]

Kelley—Do you not know that he who has the Almighty on his side is in a majority, although he seems to be beaten? [Laughter.]

Blaine demanded the previous question which was seconded and the resolution adopted.

Mr. Payne then asked leave to report a bill allowing the issue of silver in exchange for greenbacks, remarking that Blount, who had before objected to it, now withdrew his objection.

Kelley—I object. I think that an act of Congress ought to stand for thirty days.

By unanimous consent, a bill was introduced appropriating $20,000 for the expenses of the committee to investigate the federal offices of Louisiana, which was passed.

The House agreed to adjourn from the 9th to the 12th, in order to visit the opening of the Centennial.

A message from the President declining to furnish the House with information as to his absence at various times from Washington was read and received with cool disdain on the Democratic side and with evident enjoyment on the Republican side.

MacDougall then offered a resolution instructing the select committee for the investigation of Federal offices in Louisiana, to make full and complete investigation of the circumstances attending the assassination of M. H. Twitchell and D. Kingon on Red river, Louisiana, particularly if the case was not of a political character.

Beebe desired to have investigation also in the killing of 2 negroes and the wounding of 8, at the late election at Indianapolis.

Townsend remarked, amidst much uproar, that the Republicans carried the election and Democrats killed the niggers.

MacDougall's resolution was adopted. Adjourned.

Message from the President.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The President to-day sent the following message to the House,

To the House of Representatives—I have given very attentive consideration to the resolution of the House of Representatives, passed on the 3d of April, requesting the President to inform the House whether any executive officer's acts or duties, and if any, what, have within the specified period been performed at a distance from the seat of government established by law, etc. I have never hesitated and still do not hesitate to communicate to Congress and to either branch thereof all information which the constitution makes it the duty of the President to give, or which my judgment may suggest to me, or a request from either House may indicate to me, will be useful in the discharge of the appropriate duties confided to them. I fail, however, to find in the constitution any authority given to the House of Representatives, one branch of Congress in which is vested the legislative power of government, to require of the executive an independent branch of the government, co-ordinate with the Senate and House of Representatives, an account of his discharge of his appropriate and purely executive official acts and duties, either as to when, where or how performed. What the House may require as a right in their demands upon the Executive for information is limited to what is necessary for the proper discharge of its powers of legislation, or impeachment. The inquiry in the resolution of the House as to where Executive acts have, within the last seven years, been performed and at what distance from any particular spot, or for how long a period at any one time, etc., does not necessarily belong to the province of legislation. It does not profess to be asked for that object. If this information be sought through the inquiry of the President as to his executive acts in view or in aid of the power of impeachment vested in the House, it is asked in derogation of inherent natural right recognized in this country by the constitutional guarantee which protects every citizen, President as well as the humblest in the land, from being made a witness against himself. During the time that I have had the honor to occupy the position of President of this Government, it has been, and while I continue to occupy that position it will be, my earnest endeavor to recognize and to respect the several trusts and duties and powers of the co-ordinate branches of the Government, not encroaching upon them, nor allowing encroachments upon the proper powers of the authority which the people of the United States confided to me, but aiming to preserve in their proper relations the several powers and functions of each of the co-ordinate branches of the government agreeably to the constitution, and in accordance with the solemn oath which I have taken to preserve, protect and defend that instrument. In maintenance of the rights secured by the constitution to the Executive branch of the government, I am compelled to decline any specific or detailed answer to the resolution of the House for information as to any executive official acts or duties, and if any, what have been performed at a distance from the seat of government established by law, and for how long a period at any one time, and in what part of the United States. If, however, the House of Representatives desire to know whether, during the period of upward of seven years which I have held the office of President, I have been absent from the seat of government, and whenever during that period I have neglected or omitted to perform any of the duties of my office, I freely inform the House that from the time of my entrance upon the duties of my office, I have been in the habit, as were all my predecessors, with the exception of one who lived only one month after assuming the duties of his office, and one whose continued presence in Washington was necessary from the existence at the time of a powerful rebellion, of absenting myself at times from the seat of government, and that during such absences I did not neglect or forego the obligations or the duties of my office but continued to discharge the executive official acts and duties which were required of me as President of the United States. [Applause from the Republican side.] I am not aware that a failure occurred in any one instance of my exercising the functions and powers of my office in every case requiring their discharge, or my exercising all necessary executive acts in whatever part of the United States where I may have been at the time. Fortunately the rapidity of travel, of mail communication, and the facility of almost instantaneous correspondence with officers at the seat of government which the telegraph affords to the President in whatever section of the Union he may be enables him in these days to maintain as constant and almost as quick intercourse with the departments at Washington as may be obtained while he remains in the capital. The necessity of the proper performance of executive acts by the President of the United States devolves upon him whenever he may be within the United States during his term of office, by the constitution of the United States. His civil powers are not more limited or capable of limitation as to the place where they shall be exercised than are those which he might be required to discharge in his capacity of commander-in-chief of the army and navy, which latter powers it is evident he might be called upon to exercise, possibly even without the limits of the United States. If the efforts of those recently in rebellion against the government had been successful in driving the late President of the United States from Washington, it is manifest that he must have discharged his functions, both civil and military, elsewhere than in the place named by law as the seat of government. No act of Congress can limit, suspend or confine this constitutional duty. I am not aware of the existence of any act of Congress which assumes this to be the limit or restricts the exercise of the functions of the executive. Were there such act, I should nevertheless recognize the superior authority of the constitution, and should exercise the powers required thereby of the President. The act to which reference is made in the resolution of the House relates to the establishment of the seat of government, and the providing of suitable buildings and the removal thereto of the offices attached to the government, &c. It was not understood at its date and by Gen. Washington to confine the president in the discharge of his duties and powers to actual presence at the seat of government. On the 30th March, 1791, shortly after the passage of the act referred to, Washington issued an executive proclamation having reference to the subject of this very act, from Georgetown, a place remote from Philadelphia, which then was the seat of government, where the act referred to directed that all offices attached to the seat of government should for the time remain. That none of his successors have entertained the idea that their executive offices could be performed only at the seat of government is evidenced by the hundreds upon hundreds of such acts performed by my predecessors in an unbroken line from Washington to Lincoln. A memorandum of the general nature and character of some of such acts is submitted herewith, and no question has been raised as to the validity of these acts, or to the right or propriety of the Executive to exercise the powers of his office in any part of the United States.

U. S. GRANT.

WASHINGTON, May 4, 1876.

It will be observed that the message is dated Washington without "U. S." and the prefix "Executive Mansion." Accompanying the message is a memorandum of the absence of the President of the United States from the national capitol during each of the several administrations, and of the public and executive acts performed during the time of such absences.

Washington was absent 181 days and did some of the most important official business in our history at a distance from the capitol.

John Adams was absent 385 days, Jefferson, 796, VanBuren 131, Tyler 163, Polk 37, Taylor 31, Fillmore 60, Pierce, 57, Buchanan, 57. No mention is made of the absences of Presidents Lincoln and Johnson.

OREGON.

Crops of fall grain in the vicinity of Hillsboro are looking finely.

The spring run of salmon has just commenced in Rogue river.

An attempt was made to rob the safe in the office of the county clerk at Hillsboro last week.

C. M. Stuart, of Deep river, is building a boat shop on Gray's Bay 32 by 70 feet in size. He will launch his first boat, for Wm. Strong, on Friday next.

Mr. Lehnherr is having a town laid off at a place called Myrtle Point, on the south fork of the Coquille river. The new town will bear the name of Myrtle Point.

The Grangers and Good Templars are going to have a new 50 pound bell for the use of their hall in Hillsboro. The bell has been ordered and will soon arrive.

The woodcutters of Cornelius celebrated the first anniversary of the flood which washed away about forty cords of wood on the Tualatin bottom, by a big ball Saturday eve.

The farmers in the vicinity of Cornelius are utilizing the occasional spells of sunshine in putting in their crops. Fall grain looks exceedingly well, and the prospect is good for an abundant yield.

The following citizens of Albany have started for the great Exposition at Philadelphia: Mr. J. H. Foster, wife and daughters, Maggie and Mattie; Dr. George W. Gray, wife and child; Mr. Milton Beach, wife and child; Mr. L. E. Blain and wife, and Mr. Ashby Pearce and wife.

The names of Harry Blake and T. W. Crook of Curry county, are mentioned in connection with the office of joint representative, and it is probable that one of these gentlemen will receive the nomination. The Record says the Republicans of Coos county will cordially support either of these men.

J. H. McDonald, John Stephens and Henry Adams were arrested at Gardiner, last Saturday, by Harry Howard, on civil process from Esquire Dunbar's court, and brought back and lodged in jail. They were released on Monday upon payment of a portion of the claim against them. Moral, settle your board bills.

The Corvallis city election, which took place last Monday, the 1st instant, resulted in the election of the following officers for the ensuing year: Mayor, H. W. Vincent; recorder, James A. Yantis; Marshal, John Hamilton; treasurer, Wm. Groves; councilmen, first ward, D. G. Clark, A. Purdy; second ward, T. J. Buford, A. Johnson; third ward, S. L. Shedd.

The Albany Democrat learns from Rev. J. Bowersox, of the Evangelical church of this city, that Bishop Dubs, of Cleveland, Ohio, signifies his intention of coming to Oregon this coming fall for the purpose of establishing a conference district in Oregon for that denomination. There are as yet but three churches of this belief in the State, viz.: at Albany, Salem and Corvallis. Rev. W. C. Kanter, of Pennsylvania, a young man of considerable ability, is now on his way to this State sent out by the board of home missions.

The Olympia Echo learns that a serious difficulty arose between the prisoners and keeper of the Steilacoom jail, on Tuesday. It is reported that the prisoners who had concealed a revolver in the woods for several weeks, made an attack on Mr. Wm. Hawk, the keeper, while the six prisoners were out at work, shooting at him six times. Mr. Hawk was confounded by the shooting, (as might have been expected) for two or three balls passed through his clothing. During the affray, the prisoners stampeded. Mr. Hawk, in the excitement of the moment, shot a Frenchman who had been in jail for stealing from Judge B. F. Dennison. The ball penetrated the unfortunate man's neck, and death resulted therefrom. All the prisoners were recaptured, except the one who shot at the keeper, and he will, undoubtedly, soon be overtaken by justice.

An infant sea serpent has been picked up near Cape Flattery and taken to Port Townsend, W. T., whence it will be sent to the Centennial. It is seven feet long, and its head, of a conical shape, measures 22 inches in circumference. It has a pair of formidable jaws thickly set with powerful teeth, and has a prominent fin above and below, running the entire length of the body. It is different from anything heretofore seen in that locality.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 5, 1876.

THE CANDIDATES.

Only one candidate was nominated by the State Convention, to be voted for by the State at large, which involves any especial consideration of the fitness of the candidate for the discharge of official duties. As national politics are now managed, the Presidential Elector is merely a conduit through which the votes of the people for President and Vice President are carried to the Electoral College, to be counted. The original design of the plan of choosing electors instead of voting directly for President and Vice President, was that by this method a body of the most intelligent and patriotic men of the nation should be called to make the selection of these high officers according to their own best judgment of the fitness of Presidential candidates. But that was before the days of political conventions with power to bind the action of the electors. The invention of this convention machinery and its universal adoption by all parties, has reduced the elector to a mere agent to do a particular thing, with no discretionary power. The National Convention is the real Electoral College now, and then the people by their votes decide what particular set of candidates presented by these party Electoral Colleges they will have for their first rulers. Practically, the President and Vice President are chosen directly by the people in their capacity as citizens of different States. This puts all question of personal fitness out of the case so far as Electors are concerned. The discussion of the fitness of candidates is directed at the nominees of the National Conventions. It is not out of order, however, to remark that the gentlemen selected by the Republican Convention for Electors, are gentlemen who enjoy in a high degree the respect and confidence of the community in which they live. They are also gentlemen accustomed to public speaking—the great qualification for the position—and will be able to present the cause of their party to the people in all its bearings. When the national convention shall have done its work, it will be time for further consideration of this branch of the coming campaign in the State.

Hon. Richard Williams is nominated for Congress. What we said of him two years ago, when we were supporting another candidate, we can certainly afford to say of him now, so far as his qualifications and fitness for the office are concerned. No one questions his ability. He has never been a politician, in any sense. He is a good lawyer, and has nothing in his past life which he is afraid to meet. We said two years ago he was in every respect to be preferred before the Democratic candidate. The same we say to-day. He was preferable to LaDow then; he is preferable to Lane now; and Davenport, whom we then earnestly supported, as an independent candidate, with whatever influence we were able to exert, is not now in the field. The race is between Lane and Williams, and we shall support the latter with such cordiality as an appreciation of his talents and character, and a warm personal friendship of many years uninterrupted by even the contest of 1874, will naturally inspire.

Mr. Williams has, to as great an extent, perhaps, as any other gentleman who has been recognized as a straight Republican, the confidence and general good-will of the independent Republicans. He is one of those who, in 1873, had the regard for himself and the courage publicly to refuse a nomination for Congress on the famous "Hipple Resolution." His manly speech before the convention of that year, in which he declared he would not go before the people of Oregon with the sins of the Senator bound on his shoulders, made him at the time a particular mark for the enmity of the Senator's backers, or claquers; and he was taken up by them in 1874 for the express reason that it was supposed he would receive the support of the independent Republicans and prevent the bringing out of a third candidate. Under all the circumstances, we question whether there is in the State another one who would more nearly unite the Republicans of all classes, unless we may except Hon. Henry Warren, whom we have all along regarded as the strongest man that could be selected, but who declined to be considered a candidate.

THE ENGLISH VIEW OF THE WINSLOW CASE.

The London Times, discussing the questions involved in the Winslow extradition case, about which the British government and our own hold diametrically opposite opinions, and which have led to a notice on our part of a policy of abrogation of the treaty providing for extraditions, says the difficulty which has arisen is as follows: By the third section of the extradition act a fugitive criminal is not to be surrendered to a foreign State unless provision is made by the law of that State or by arrangement that the fugitive criminal shall not, until he has been restored or had an opportunity of returning to Her Majesty's dominions, be detained or tried in that foreign State for any offense committed prior to his surrender other than the extradition crime proved by the facts on which the surrender is grounded.

The object of the clause is clear. It is to prevent the process of extradition from being abused by way of procuring the surrender of persons charged with vulgar crimes, against whom the real accusation is some political offense, from the consequences of which they ought to be protected by our usage of granting asylum to political refugees of all parties. We tie our own hands in the same way by the 19th section of the act, which provides that where a person has been surrendered to us he shall not be tried for any offense prior to the surrender other than such extradition offense as may be proved by the facts on which the surrender is grounded. A clause embodying this principle is contained in all our modern extradition treaties concluded since 1870 with Germany, Belgium, Austria, Italy, Denmark, Brazil, Switzerland, Honduras, and Hayti; but the American treaty belongs to 1842, and contains no such restriction.

Of course this omission cannot override an act of parliament. Any secretary of state who authorized the surrender of a criminal, having notice that the foreign country to which he was surrendered made no provision for confining the charge against him to that grounded on the facts proved here, would commit a grave breach of the law. With such [illegible] the British government [illegible] fixed in the Winslow case by the declarations of the United States government in the case of Lawrence, a criminal, who recently was surrendered. Moreover, the decision in the matter of Richard B. Caldwell, argued in the circuit court of the southern district of New York in January, 1871, shows what the views of the American courts is likely to be. Caldwell was indicted for bribing an officer of the United States. He pleaded that he was brought from Canada under the Ashburton treaty, on a charge of forgery. Judge Benedict held that whether the prisoner had been surrendered in good faith was a question for the governments concerned and not for the courts of law, and the prisoner being in fact within the jurisdiction of the court, and charged with a crime committed within that jurisdiction must be tried for such a crime without regard to the matter of extradition at all.

MR. BLAINE'S ENTERTAINMENTS.

Mr. Blaine fills so large a place in the minds of the people and his prominency as a candidate for the Republican nomination for President, is such that personal information concerning him will be specially interesting. The following slip from the New-York World, an opposition paper, very pleasantly portrays the ex-Speaker's urbanity and charm of manner:

Mr. Blaine's accession to the Speakership was generally gratifying to the members of the House and to "society" in Washington. Among newspaper men, whose duties required them to publicly canvass his merits and demerits with a candor and directness which few of his colleagues dared or cared to imitate except in private, he was at first more genuinely popular than Mr. Colfax had ever been.

The Speaker's house was one of the finest at the capital; perhaps he occupies it yet. I entered it only on one occasion—that of a reception given there to "members of the press" exclusively, during the first winter of the Speaker's rule. Inasmuch as the entertainment was permitted to be written about, and several accounts of it were telegraphed over the country at this time there will be no impropriety in this allusion to it. The gathering was rather indiscriminate, but included some of the best known editors outside of New York, and the ablest of the much maligned fraternity of Washington correspondents. Most of the latter were young men. The parlors, dazzlingly lighted, and the chambers on the second floor, were given up to the guests, who were received by Mr. Blaine alone. It was what Western folks call a stag party—no does allowed.

The speaker's demeanor was charming. In his own house, surrounded by his own treasures, and greeted by more than a hundred gentlemen, who during his then brief tenure had several of them experienced from him the apiest courtesies, he disclosed the resources of a naturally generous disposition and a cultivated tact. He was all things to all present, and when the doors between the rear drawing room and the dining-room were thrown open towards midnight, the company was in a mood to approach and share the splendid cheer upon the loaded tables. Here Mr. Blaine was at his very best. His then graceful as well as powerful figure, face aglow with health and bright spirits, movements to and fro, with plates in his hands and welcomes on his lips, and general jolly insouciance, did the business for many of the younger American journalists, whom, indeed, he sought out and attended to with special care. No wonder that personal descriptions of the new speaker, his spacious habitation and his "unaffected manners" abounded for weeks thenceforward in the columns of many a sub-metropolitan paper. The influence of those friendly sketches cannot be overestimated. Some of them were exceedingly well done, and had a pleasant tang that lingers still in the minds of those who perused them, whenever they see the name of Mr. Blaine.

The following resolution was adopted by the Republican Convention of Virginia, by a vote of 121 to 10:

Having implicit confidence in the personal worth, honor and integrity, and in the political soundness and sagacity of Hon. James G. Blaine, of the State of Maine, and believing that he will uphold and defend the Constitution as it is, and make this nation loved at home and respected abroad, we hereby declare our preference for him as the nominee of the National Republican Convention for President of the United States.

So the Conkling-Morton crowd are about as feeble in Virginia as in Oregon. With all their use of the patronage of the Federal government, and the assistance they get from the Democrats who hope by killing off Blaine and Bristow to have an easy thing in November, they are unable to suppress the expression of the sentiments of the people. It is now but little over a month before the matter will be settled, and the settlement will prove a settler to the Washington ring.

We commend the wisdom of the course pursued by the delegates in the State convention from the fifth judicial district, in deciding to make no nomination for judge of that district. There is no occasion for such a nomination. In a partisan contest the Democratic nominee, Judge L. L. McArthur, would be morally certain of an election; so the direct result would be the same as it will be, under present circumstances. But such a contest would tend to strengthen an idea which is essentially vicious and ought to be abandoned, namely, the idea of making party relationships a test of qualification for judges. Whatever tends to the eradication of this radical error in our political methods should be encouraged. A good judge should be retained through all the vicissitudes of party. All the thoroughly bad judges the country has ever had, it got by means of this partisanship in judicial elections.

The nomination of Hon. R. P. Boise for Judge of the Third District is a suitable and just recognition of his distinguished services in the judiciary of our State during the twelve years he was on the supreme bench. He will undoubtedly be elected by a large majority. The independent votes of all shades of political opinion will unite on him, as he is well known to be a man who subordinates all party feeling to his convictions of duty. Although nominated by the Republican Convention, he is in no proper sense a party candidate, for he is not a party man. Well known heretofore as an Independent, he ought to be satisfactory to Independents, as, of course, he is to the Republicans who nominated him. His nomination, it may be remarked incidentally, is a gratifying evidence of the growth of the idea of individual liberty in the Republican party.

Mrs. Avery, wife of Col. Avery, recently sentenced to the penitentiary for defrauding the government, is said to have gone deranged on account of distress occasioned by her husband's imprisonment. She went to Washington to try to obtain a remission of her husband's punishment, and in her interview with the authorities there was so incoherent and wild in her talk as to make it necessary to have her taken home. It is also stated that in a previous interview with Attorney General Pierrepont she told all she knew about the revenue frauds, and that her disclosures were of a very grave and painful character.

Hon. Raleigh Stott, the nominee of the Republicans for prosecuting attorney of this district, is a lawyer of fine ability, and a gentleman of the highest standing for personal and professional integrity. He is a member of the legislature elected two years ago as an Independent, to hold till the second Monday of September of this year. Both parties have good men on the track for this office.

"Mitchell," it is known, is for Morton for President. The State convention did well when it ordered that no proxies be given outside the delegation regularly elected. This shuts off all possibility of "Mitchell's" being placed in a situation to misrepresent Oregon in the interest of Morton.

The resolution declaring for Blaine for President will save to the Republicans of this State hundreds of votes at the June election.

MULTNOMAH COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

A Republican Convention for Multnomah county, is hereby called to meet at the court house in the city of Portland, on Tuesday, May 16, 1876, at 1 o'clock, P. M., to nominate a county and legislative ticket, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention.

Primary conventions will be held at the usual places of voting on Saturday, May 13, 1876, between the hours of 1 and 5 P. M.

The committee have adopted the following as the apportionment of delegates in said convention for the various precincts in the county:

South Portland	7	Grant	3
Madison	6	Fulton	1
Morrison	6	Multnomah	1
North Portland	5	Powell's Valley	1
Couch	5	Willamette	1
Western	7	Sauvie's Island	1
East Portland	3	St. John	1
Northeast Portland	2	Sandy	1

Total No. of delegates 51

All persons who desire the success of the Republican party, and are willing to support the nominations of the convention at the ensuing election, are cordially invited to participate in the primaries.

NO MORE BALDNESS.

MRS. S. LORD,
Agent for Mrs. Moore's Great
Scientific Hair Reproducer,

WOULD INFORM THE PUBLIC THAT SHE has opened parlors for the treatment of Ladies and Gentlemen for the cure of Baldness in all its stages, and a few treatments will convince the most skeptical that this is no exaggeration. Weak, decaying and falling hair made strong, healthy and vigorous. Hair guaranteed in all cases where directions are faithfully followed. No mineral or damaging substances used or disagreeable methods. The treatment is pleasant and soothing, bringing the scalp rapidly into a natural, healthful tone, and furnishing the proper elements to the bulbs and hair, which is produced in a surprisingly short space of time.

Ladies and gentlemen desiring treatment please call at her Parlors and the most satisfactory proofs will be furnished. Photographs of prominent men taken before and after treatment, can be seen at her rooms. Visitors always welcome. Preparations sent to all parts of Oregon and Washington.

A GOOD WASHING MACHINE.

THE

COMPLETE WASHER.

WITH GREAT SATISFACTION WE TESTIFY to the wonderful qualities of the "COMPLETE WASHER" Machine, which is in use by many of the best families in our city. [illegible] it makes the wash day one of pleasure and [illegible] no wear on clothing or fire to operate. It is by excessive and exhaustive labor by the women of our land, who are toiling all day long on an ordinary family washing in the hot suds, wearing away their knuckle bones and very lives every week in the year, and going out from the [illegible] tub to the cold air, which causes our mothers, sisters and loved ones to [illegible], causing pains in the back and limbs, rheumatism, pleurisy, chills and fever, etc., sometimes resulting in death. Ladies rescue yourselves from this thraldom, and purchase a "Complete Washer," the Best-time Washer of our land, which commands your time and does away with this excessive labor; for you know that for one to handle by hand large articles, such as quilts, etc., that it is exceedingly difficult by the old mode. We advise and entreat everybody, therefore, to have one of the Machines. They are within the reach of every family.

Best of Wringers and Clothes Lines always on hand.

Of the great number who have this Machine in Oregon and on the Pacific slope, not one would part with it. Hundreds and the [illegible] of such testimonials could be gotten.

FLOWERS OF

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING. MAY 5, 1876.

THE CANDIDATES.

Only one candidate was nominated by the State Convention, to be voted for by the State at large, which involves any [illegible] consideration of the fitness of the [illegible] for the discharge of official duties. As national politics are now [illegible], the Presidential Elector is merely a conduit through which the votes of the people for President and Vice President are carried to the Electoral College, to be counted. The original design of the plan of choosing electors instead of voting directly for President and Vice President, was that by this method a body of the most intelligent and patriotic men of the nation should be called to make the selection of these high officers according to their own best judgment of the fitness of Presidential candidates. But that was before the days of political conventions with power to bind the action of the electors. The invention of this convention [illegible], and its universal adoption by all parties, has reduced the elector to a mere agent to do a particular thing, with no discretionary power. The National Convention is the real Electoral College now, and then the people by their votes decide what particular set of candidates presented by these party Electoral Colleges they will have for their first rulers. Practically, the President and Vice President are chosen directly by the people in their capacity as citizens of different States. This puts all question of personal fitness out of the [illegible] so far as Electors are concerned. The discussion of the fitness of candidates is directed at the nominees of the National Conventions. It is not out of order, however, to remark that the gentlemen selected by the Republican Convention for Electors, are gentlemen who enjoy in a high degree the respect and confidence of the community in which they live. They are also gentlemen [illegible] to public speaking—the great qualification for the position—and will be able to present the cause of their party to the people in all its bearings. When the national convention shall have [illegible] its work, it will be time for fur[illegible] of this branch of the [illegible] campaign in the State.

Hon. [illegible] Williams is nominated for Congress. What we said of him two years ago, when we were supporting another candidate, we can certainly afford to say of him now, so far as his qualifications and fitness for the office are concerned. No one questions his ability. He has never been a politician, in any sense. He is a good lawyer, and has nothing in his past life which he is afraid to meet. We said two years ago he was in every respect to be preferred before the Democratic candidate. The same we say to-day. [illegible] to LaDow then; he is [illegible] now; and Davenport, whom we then [illegible] supported, as an independent candidate, with whatever influence we were able to exert, is not now in the field. The race is between Lane and Williams, and we shall support the latter with such cordiality as an appreciation of his talents and character, and a warm [illegible] of many years unin[illegible] even the contest of 1874, [illegible].

Mr. Williams has, to as great an extent, [illegible] as any other gentleman who has [illegible] as a straight Republican, the [illegible] and general good will of the [illegible] Republicans. He is one of [illegible] in 1873, had the [illegible] for himself and the courage publicly to refuse [illegible] for Congress on the [illegible]. His manly speech before the convention of that year, in which he declared he would not go before the people of Oregon with the sins of the Senator bound on his shoulders, made [illegible] particular work for the [illegible], or [illegible] taken up by them in 1874 for the express [illegible] that it was supposed [illegible] the support of the independent [illegible] prevent the bringing out of a third candidate. [illegible] we question whether [illegible] in the State another [illegible] while the [illegible] we may [illegible] Hon. Henry Warren, whom we have all along [illegible] as the strongest [illegible], but who de[illegible].

THE ENGLISH VIEW OF THE WINSLOW CASE.

The [illegible] the questions involved in the Winslow extradition case, [illegible] stand our own [illegible] opinions, and which have led to [illegible] on our part of a [illegible] providing for extradition, says the [illegible] which has [illegible] of the extradition act: a fugitive criminal is not to be surrendered to a foreign [illegible] unless provided by the law of that State or by arrangement that the fugitive criminal shall not, until he has [illegible] or had an opportunity of returning to Her Majesty's dominions, be [illegible] or tried in that foreign State for any [illegible] committed prior to his surrender other than the extradition crime proved by the facts on which the surrender is grounded.

The object of the clause is clear. It is to prevent the power of extradition from being [illegible] by way of procuring the surrender of [illegible] with vulgar crimes against [illegible] some political offense, from the consequences of which they ought to be protected by our [illegible] of granting asylum to political refugees of all parties. We tie our own hands in the same way by the 19th section of the act, which provides that where a person has been surrendered to us he shall not be tried for any offense prior to the surrender other than such extradition offense as may be proved by the facts on which the surrender is grounded. A clause embodying this principle is contained in all our modern extradition treaties concluded since 1870 with Germany, Belgium, Austria, Italy, Denmark, Brazil, Switzerland, Honduras, and Hayti; but the American treaty belongs to 1842, and contains no such [illegible].

Of [illegible] we cannot extradite an [illegible]. Any secretary of state who authorized the surrender of a criminal, having notice that the foreign country to which he was surrendered made no provision for confining the charge against him to that grounded on the [illegible] proved here, would commit a grave breach of the law. With such [illegible] British [illegible] by the declaration [illegible] the United States [illegible] within the [illegible] recently was surrendered. Moreover, the decision in the matter of Richard B. Caldwell, argued in the circuit court of the southern district of New York in January, 1871, shows what the views of the American courts is likely to be. Caldwell was indicted for bribing an officer of the [illegible] that he was brought from Canada under the Ashburton treaty, on a charge of forgery. Judge Benedict held that whether the prisoner had been surrendered in good faith was a question for the governments concerned and not for the courts of law, and the prisoner being in fact within the jurisdiction of the court and charged with a crime committed within that jurisdiction must be tried for such a crime without regard to the matter of extradition at all.

MR. BLAINE'S ENTERTAINMENTS.

Mr. Blaine fills so large a place in the minds of the people and his prominency as a candidate for the Republican nomination for President, is such that personal information concerning him will be specially interesting. The following slip from the New York World, an opposition paper, very pleasantly portrays the ex-Speaker's urbanity and charm of manner:

Mr. Blaine's accession to the Speakership was generally gratifying to the members of the House and to "society" in Washington. Among newspaper men, whose duties required them to publicly canvass his merits and demerits with a candor and directness which few of his colleagues dared or cared to imitate except in private, he was at first more genuinely popular than Mr. Colfax had ever been.

The Speaker's house was one of the finest at the capital; perhaps he occupies it yet. I entered it only on one occasion—that of a reception given there to "members of the press" exclusively, during the first winter of the Speaker's rule. Inasmuch as the entertainment was permitted to be written about, and several accounts of it were telegraphed over the country at this time there will be no impropriety in this allusion to it. The gathering was rather indiscriminate, but included some of the best known editors outside of New York, and the ablest of the much maligned fraternity of Washington correspondents. Most of the latter were young men. The parlors, dazzlingly lighted, and the chambers on the second floor, were given up to the guests, who were received by Mr. Blaine alone. It was what Western folks call a stag party—no does allowed.

The speaker's demeanor was charming. In his own house, surrounded by his own treasures, and greeted by more than a hundred gentlemen, who during his then brief tenure had several of them experienced from him the aptest courtesies, he disclosed the resources of a naturally generous disposition and a cultivated tact. He was all things to all present, and when the doors between the rear drawing room and the dining-room were thrown open towards midnight, the company was in a mood to approach and share the splendid cheer upon the loaded tables. Here Mr. Blaine was at his very best. His then graceful as well as powerful figure, face aglow with health and bright spirits, movements to and fro with plates in his hands and welcomes on his lips, and general jolly insouciance, did the business for many of the younger American journalists, whom, indeed, he sought out and attended to with special care. No wonder that personal descriptions of the new speaker, his spacious habitation and his "unaffected manners" abounded for weeks thenceforward in the columns of many a sub-metropolitan paper. The influence of those friendly sketches cannot be overestimated. Some of them were exceedingly well done, and had a pleasant tang that lingers still in the minds of those who perused them, whenever they see the name of Mr. Blaine.

The following resolution was adopted by the Republican Convention of Virginia, by a vote of 121 to 10:

Having implicit confidence in the personal worth, honor and integrity, and in the political soundness and sagacity of Hon. James G. Blaine, of the State of Maine, and believing that he will uphold and defend the Constitution as it is, and make this nation loved at home and respected abroad, we hereby declare our preference for him as the nominee of the National Republican Convention for President of the United States.

So the Conkling-Morton crowd are about as feeble in Virginia as in Oregon. With all their use of the patronage of the Federal government, and the assistance they get from the Democrats who hope by killing off Blaine and Bristow to have an easy thing in November, they are unable to suppress the expression of the sentiments of the people. It is now but little over a month before the matter will be settled, and the settlement will prove a settler to the Washington ring.

We commend the wisdom of the course pursued by the delegates in the State convention from the fifth judicial district, in deciding to make no nomination for judge of that district. There is no occasion for such a nomination. In a partisan contest the Democratic nominee, Judge L. L. McArthur, would be morally certain of an election; so the direct result would be the same as it will be under present circumstances. But such a contest would tend to strengthen an idea which is essentially vicious and ought to be abandoned, namely, the idea of making party relationships a test of qualification for judges. Whatever tends to the eradication of this radical error in our political methods should be encouraged. A good judge should be retained through all the vicissitudes of party. All the thoroughly bad judges the country has ever had, it got by means of this partisanship in judicial elections.

The nomination of Hon. R. P. Boise for Judge of the Third District is a suitable and just recognition of his distinguished services in the judiciary of our State during the twelve years he was on the supreme bench. He will undoubtedly be elected by a large majority. The independent votes of all shades of political opinion will unite on him, as he is well known to be a man who subordinates all party feeling to his convictions of duty. Although nominated by the Republican Convention, he is in no proper sense a party candidate, for he is not a party man. Well known heretofore as an Independent, he ought to be satisfactory to Independents, as, of course, he is to the Republicans who nominated him. His nomination, it may be remarked incidentally, is a gratifying evidence of the growth of the idea of individual liberty in the Republican party.

Mrs. Avery, wife of Col. Avery, recently sentenced to the penitentiary for defrauding the government, is said to have gone deranged on account of distress occasioned by her husband's imprisonment. She went to Washington to try to obtain a remission of her husband's punishment, and in her interview with the authorities there was so incoherent and wild in her talk as to make it necessary to have her taken home. It is also stated that in a previous interview with Attorney General Pierrepont she told all she knew about the revenue frauds, and that her disclosures were of a very grave and painful character.

Hon. Raleigh Stott, the nominee of the Republicans for prosecuting attorney of this district, is a lawyer of fine ability, and a gentleman of the highest standing for personal and professional integrity. He is a member of the legislature elected two years ago as an Independent, to hold till the second Monday of September of this year. Both parties have good men on the track for this office.

"Mitchell," it is known, is for Morton for President. The State Convention did well when it ordered that [illegible] given out [illegible] regularly [illegible]. This [illegible] of [illegible] being [illegible] Oregon in the interest of Morton.

The resolution declaring for Blaine for President will save to the Republicans of this State hundreds of votes at the June election.

MULTNOMAH COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

A Republican Convention for Multnomah county, is hereby called to meet at the court house in the city of Portland, on Tuesday, May 16, 1876, at 1 o'clock, P. M., to nominate a county and legislative ticket, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention.

NO MORE BALDNESS.
MRS. S. LORD,
Agent for Mrs. Moore's Great,
Scientific Hair Reproducer,
WOULD INFORM THE PUBLIC THAT SHE has opened parlors for the treatment of Ladies and Gentlemen for the cure of Baldness in all its stages, and a few treatments will convince the most skeptical that this is no exaggeration. Weak, decaying and falling hair made strong, healthy and vigorous. Hair guaranteed in all cases where directions are faithfully followed. No mineral or damaging substances used or disagreeable methods. The treatment is pleasant and soothing, bringing the scalp rapidly into a natural, healthful tone, and furnishing the proper elements to the bulbs and hair, which is produced in a surprisingly short space of time.
Ladies and gentlemen desiring treatment please call at her Parlors and the most satisfactory proofs will be furnished. Photographs of prominent men taken before and after treatment, can be seen at her rooms. Visitors always welcome. Preparations sent to all parts of Oregon and Washington.

BRIEF NOTES.

Political caldron is "simmering."

The whole interior of the Court House is being renovated.

The Columbia river is on a stand still, but the Wallamet is rising.

The steamer Oriflamme will carry hence a very large passenger list this morning.

The billiard match for Centennial week promises to enlarge on the previous arrangement.

The Ladies Social Union of Taylor street M. E. church is to give a pound party next week.

Carpenters are engaged in putting up the timbers for the second story of Flanders' new wharf.

The saying that matches are made in heaven originated probably before the discovery of base ball.

R. C. White will lecture at Good Templar Hall in aid of the cause of Temperance on the 12th inst.

The brick masons have commenced work for the new building at the corner of Alder and First streets.

A boy driving an express wagon yesterday was thrown out into the mud, but fortunately escaped without injury.

The grass on the new postoffice block has been cut, thereby materially improving the appearance of the block.

Wednesday evening W. H. Dufur, son of Hon A. J. Dufur, met with a severe accident resulting in the dislocation of his ankle joint.

Stephen Massett (Jeems Pipes, of Pipesville) after drifting about in the Old World has returned to this country, on his way to California.

Since Easter, hens have formed a combination and concluded to shut down in consequence of a falling off in the demand for their products.

The head of the family is made sensible of the approach of summer by appeals for spring hats and light toggery, made by loving spouses and dutiful daughters.

There will be a grove meeting held by the Spiritualists, on their ground at New Era Clackamas county, commencing June 2, 1876 and extending over Sunday.

Resumption of specie payments must continue to be indefinitely postponed so long as all the gold obtainable goes to fill the cavities in the teeth of candy eating girls.

The Woman's Band of Helpers will hold a public meeting this (Friday) evening, at 7½ o'clock, at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association. All are cordially invited.

Buckwheat cakes have gone out of style, and now sassafras tea is the leading feature of the table where the woman who took herb medicines every spring when she was a little girl predominates.

Taylor street M. E. Sunday school have elected a committee to make the necessary arrangements for their annual picnic and have fixed on the 13th inst., one week from next Saturday as the day.

The melodious notes of the frog are expected to be the only musical strains which spoony couples will be called upon to drink in silently this year while squeezing each other's hands with eloquent cuff looks.

Samaritan lodge, I. O. O. F. at a recent meeting, elected the following representatives to the Grand Lodge, which meets at Salem on the 6th inst.: Wm Braden, W. J. Algeo, Dr. Chance, Frank Beardsley and J. A. Davis.

THE COURTS.

STATE CIRCUIT COURT—SHATTUCK, J.—[illegible] TERM.

John Donnerberg vs G. M. Rohr, et al; judgment against defendant, Rohr for costs; defendant A. Halpruner adjudged to be the owner of the personal property mentioned in the proceedings.

Ben Holladay vs S. G. Elliott; motion for change of venue allowed.

S. G. Elliott vs Ben Holladay; same proceedings.

—Lemon vs J. F. Steffin; time to file transcript enlarged until 1st of June.

J. M. Moore vs John Hall et al; defendant allowed until 1st of June term to file answer to amended complaint.

B. A. Rekdal vs Mason & Atwater; hearing, on writ of review submitted.

T. W. Pittinger vs Estes & Carter; leave to amend complaint.

Pierre Manceit vs George W. F. Johnson et al; confirmation of sheriff's sale.

Edward Campion vs Josiah Myrick; same order.

Theodore Rolfes vs Russell & Woodward, judgment on mandate of Supreme Court.

W. W. Thayer vs J. J. Stinson; confirmation of sheriff's sale.

J. P. O. Lownsdale vs C. C. Stout et al; plaintiff allowed until Saturday to reply.

Gustav Strube vs Joseph Burkhardt and W. Stark; confirmation of sheriff's sale.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. C. A. Dolph is a passenger on board the steamer which will sail this morning. She goes below for the purpose of attending the grand reunion of graduates of Mills Seminary which will take place on the 15th inst.

Mrs Dr G. H. Atkinson and son go to day on the Oriflamme en route for New York city. Mrs. A. came to Oregon, with her husband via Cape Horn and the Sandwich Islands, the first pioneer missionaries of the American Home Missionary Society to the Pacific coast crossing the bar of the Columbia June 15, 1848. Having like other pioneer ladies in Oregon borne her part in the self denials and toils of this new State, she goes East as once before 11 years ago, with the hope of renewing health and vigor for yet further labors here. The meeting her eldest son, now a physician and surgeon in Brooklyn, New York, after a separation of nearly eight years will doubtless infuse new life and increase the benefit of the trip. Edward, M. L. A., having just completed his course at Pacific University will probably after a time pursue his professional studies at the East.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

John Williams, abusive language, fined $10.

A. Williams, drunk and disorderly, fined $10 which he paid.

Geo. Mansfield, drunk and disorderly, committed for 10 days.

Richard Ross and John Koentz, charged with assault and battery, each fined $30, paid.

When you wish to present a respectable appearance dress well. All the young and old men in the town consider that the late importations at Jos. Kohn's are the best they have seen. Kohn is always up to snuff, and provides his patrons with the latest and best. Examine the stock.

Mrs. S. Lord will guarantee to check falling of the hair in from one to two weeks and restore the grayest hair to its original color in one month. Refers by permission to Benj. Thomas, V. B. DeLashmutt and Mrs. H. B. Oatman. Parlors, First National Bank building. See advertisement.

Trade Dollars are not a legal tender but S. P. Whisky will always be acceptable when tendered to those who appreciate a premium beverage. H. Flackenstein, 117 First street.

"Way up" coffee and lunches at Farnes Central Market. Try 'em by all means.

It is the correct thing to look well dressed and in order to do as you should invest a moderate sum in the purchase of a neat suit, which can be obtained at Fishel & Roberts who have just opened a fine assortment.

Peter Wilhelm, at the Fountain, First and Ash streets, keeps things in a cozy shape. His billiard tables are much admired and the new Virginia table is a great favorite. Call and see him.

W. J. A[illegible] M. D. A. M. [illegible], corner of First and Salmon streets, is curing the most inveterate chronic diseases of all kinds at a low price by medicated [illegible] baths and by combining the German and French with the American [illegible] practice mixed with a little common sense. His treatment is in the main entirely original and works almost miracles, as his numerous patients will attest. A lady always in the office to assist in treating women.

Tried and found constantly correct, the meals as served at the Occidental Restaurant daily by McCaferty & Whittle. This firm have recently taken charge though they are "old timers" in the business and have many [illegible]

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

The following items of religious interest are collated from the Advocate and Sentinel:

Rev. R. Bentley will preach at the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning next, May 7th.

Nearly 500 persons attend the Methodist Sunday schools of Portland and East Portland each Sabbath.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Blanchet of Nesqually will start on the 10th inst. on a pastoral visit to the Yakima Indian mission.

The regular annual meeting of the Oregon Tract Society will be held in Portland at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. at 1 P. M., May 10.

On Sabbath next Rev. W. C. Chattin will preach in the First Portland M. E. church at 11 o'clock A. M., and Rev. R. Bentley at [illegible] P. M.

Wednesday evening the whole souled friends at Forest Grove proposed a donation in favor of Rev. F. Elliott. We doubt not it was a pleasant and successful affair.

Rev. J. D. Eaton, the popular pastor of the Congregational church of this city, having resigned his pastorate, will leave by the outgoing steamer for the East, much to the regret of a large portion of the community.

On Sabbath next a Sunday school will be organized at Gaston, Forest Grove circuit. Under the inspiration of such Christian workers as Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaston the proposed Sabbath school cannot be other than a good success.

The third quarterly meeting exercises will be held at the Taylor street Methodist church on May 6th and 7th. Rev. P. M. Starr will conduct the services during the day and administer the Sacrament after Sunday morning service.

Rev. Charles Richards having finished his Easter missionary duties along the waters of Puget Sound has gone to St. Rose's mission near Walla Walla, where he will remain for a couple of months and where he hopes to erect a church at Frenchtown.

Last Sunday morning a large delegation of the St. Vincent de Paul Society approached Holy Communion in a body, thus manifesting their obedience to the spirit of their organization and crowning their charity with the wreath of religion.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.

Our regular correspondent at Vancouver under date of the 4th, writes:

County Commissioners court in session this week.

C. H. Whitney was appointed county treasurer yesterday.

There is some talk of the Pacific hotel changing hands.

The officers of the Water company will meet this evening.

Fruit growers or nurserymen are very busy planting seed and roots.

The Columbia river is over three feet higher at this place than one year ago.

Mrs. J. D. Johnson, of Oregon City, spent a few days in this city this week.

Dick Stuggart gets the contract for furnishing the U. S. A. at Fort Vancouver with beef.

Political matters are likely to warm up in this county soon as the election is coming on after a time.

The County Commissioners have deferred the leasing of school lands on Mill Plain until August next.

The Good Templars are expecting to build a commodious hall in this city within the next few months.

Jas. Crawford, merchant, was awarded the contract yesterday for furnishing hay to the U. S. A. at Fort Vancouver.

We were glad to see Chaplain Van Horn out in his buggy yesterday, as he had been somewhat unwell for a few weeks.

The Good Templars are very prosperous in this place, which is owing to their enthusiastic efforts and good management.

The Good Templars of this place meet with those of Fourth Plain on Saturday next and will have a grand picnic some five miles north of this place.

M. Wintler, merchant, obtained the contract for furnishing the U. S. A. at Fort Vancouver with 1,500 cords of hard wood and about 800 bushels of oats.

The County Commissioners, Messrs. Reed, Alexander and Hart, are among the best men of the county and are well calculated to advance the interests of their county.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Kohn is out in a new invention. He proposes to entertain patrons as well if not better than any house in the city.

Complete Washer Machine is selling like hot cakes because it gives good satisfaction. In fear of the big humbugs and imitations offered the farmers hunt up the headquarters. So be sure and order at the office on First street, near Madison, next to McGuire's bakery.

Tom Moore compares love to a potato, because it shoots from the eyes. Or rather because it becomes all the less by paring.

M. M. Rosenblatt, the well known clothier at 70 Front street, has opened a well selected stock of clothing, which includes new styles for youths, all very attractive. Call on him.

If you wish to learn how to make six dollars per day with name and address of parties making it address W. T. Brayton, Oregon City.

Is THIS NOTICE MEET THE EYE of any one suffering from deafness, defective sight, nervous debility, or any other disease which has been improperly treated or pronounced incurable, they should at once consult Dr. Cleburne of London, who is now visiting this city. Office hours, 9 A. M. to 5 P. M., Clarendon Hotel.

PLEASURE BOATS.

JOHN LACHAPELLE, Boat Builder, is prepared to furnish Boats for Sale or Rent at any moment. Boat house foot of Pine street.

THE TURF.

J. Bonnar, of Walla Walla, has matched Billy Nutts against Geo. Ross' Tom Benton for a distance of 700 yards, for $200 a side, the race to take place at Lash's course, Saturday, May 13.

A Walla Walla exchange says: "Mr. W. L. Freeman, living on the Alpowai, is the owner of a Bellfounder colt that promises to outstrip all the previous get of that celebrated stallion. The colt is four years old, shows all the points of his sire, and is a half brother of Abbott's Pathfinder. The existence of this horse has scarcely been known, and yet we are assured that he is one of the most likely colts that Bellfounder has sired. He has never been trained and consequently his true value is not as yet known."

MORE TESTIMONIALS.

We the undersigned have been treated by Dr. Halpruner for corns and find him skillful in extracting and curing corns without pain or causing lameness: W. B. Cardwell, M. D., Clinton, Louser, Charles Dehnor, John Schmeer, Milton Hall, Jas. Henry, Martin Bennett, John Kearney. Persons wishing to have corns extracted and cured at their residence or office can address me by postal card appointing time and place. Office and residence, cor. Eighth and Market streets. DR. BRIEF NOTES.

Political caul… [illegible] simmering.

The whole interior of the court house is being renovated.

The Columbia river is on a stand still, but the Wallamet is rising.

The steamer Oriflamme will carry hence a very large passenger list this morning.

The billiard match for Centennial week promises to enlarge on the previous arrangement.

The Ladies' Social Union, of Taylor street M. E. church, is to give a pound party next week.

Carpenters are engaged in putting up the timbers for the second story of Flanders' new wharf.

The saying that matches are made in heaven originated probably before the discovery of base ball.

R. C. White will lecture, at Good Templar Hall, in aid of the cause of Temperance, on the 12th inst.

The brick masons have commenced work for the new building at the corner of Alder and First streets.

A boy driving an express wagon yesterday was thrown out into the mud, but fortunately escaped without injury.

The grass on the new postoffice block has been cut, thereby materially improving the appearance of the block.

Wednesday evening W. H. Dufur, son of Hon. A. J. Dufur, met with a severe accident resulting in the dislocation of his ankle joint.

Stephen Massett (Jeems Piper, of Pipesville) after drifting about in the Old World, has returned to this country, on his way to California.

Since Easter, hens have formed a combination and concluded to shut down in consequence of a falling off in the demand for their products.

The head of the family is made sensible of the approach of summer by appeals for spring hats and light toggery, made by loving spouses and dutiful daughters.

There will be a grove meeting held by the Spiritualists, on their ground, at New Era, Clackamas county, commencing June 2, 1876, and extending over Sunday.

Resumption of specie payments must continue to be indefinitely postponed so long as all the gold obtainable goes to fill the cavities in the teeth of candy eating girls.

The Woman's Band of Helpers will hold a public meeting this (Friday) evening, at 7½ o'clock, at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association. All are cordially invited.

Buckwheat cakes have gone out of style, and now sassafras tea is the leading feature of the table where the woman who took herb medicines every spring when she was a little girl predominates.

Taylor street M. E. Sunday school have elected a committee to make the necessary arrangements for their annual picnic, and have fixed on the 13th inst., one week from next Saturday, as the day.

The melodious notes of the frog are expected to be the only musical strains which spoony couples will be called upon to drink in silently this year while squeezing each other's hands, with eloquent calf looks.

Samaritan lodge, I. O. O. F., at a recent meeting, elected the following representatives to the Grand Lodge, which meets at Salem on the 8th inst.: Wm. Braden, W. J. Algeo, Dr. Chance, Frank Beardsley and T. A. Davis.

THE COURTS.

STATE CIRCUIT COURT—SHATTUCK, J.—SPECIAL TERM.

THURSDAY, May 4, 1876.

James Loomis vs John Catlin; motion for new trial overruled; plaintiff allowed twenty days to file bill of exceptions.

John Donnerberg vs C. M. Rohr, et al; judgment against defendant, Rohr, for costs; defendant A. Halpruner adjudged to be the owner of the personal property mentioned in the proceedings.

Ben Holladay vs S. G. Elliott; motion for change of venue allowed.

S. G. Elliott vs Ben Holladay; same proceedings.

— Lemon vs J. F. Steffin; time to file transcript enlarged until 1st of June.

J. M. Moore vs John Hall, et al; defendant allowed until 1st of June term to file answer to amended complaint.

B. A. Rekdal vs Mason & Atwater; hearing on writ of review; submitted.

W. Pittinger vs Estes & Carter; leave to amend complaint.

Pierre Mancelt vs George W. F. Johnson, et al; confirmation of sheriff's sale.

Edward Campion vs Josiah Myrick; same order.

Gustav Strube vs Joseph Burkhardt and W. Stark; confirmation of sheriff's sale.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. C. A. Dolph is a passenger on board the steamer which will sail this morning. She goes below for the purpose of attending the grand reunion of graduates of Mills Seminary, which will take place on the 18th inst.

Mrs. Dr. G. H. Atkinson and son go to-day on the Oriflamme en route for New York city. Mrs. A. came to Oregon, with her husband, via Cape Horn and the Sandwich Islands, the first pioneer missionaries of the American Home Missionary Society to the Pacific coast, crossing the bar of the Columbia June 15, 1848. Having like other pioneer ladies in Oregon, borne her part in the self-denials and toils of this new State, she goes East, as once before, 11 years ago, with the hope of renewing health and vigor for yet further labors here. The [illegible] her eldest son, now a physician and surgeon in Brooklyn, New York, after a separation of nearly eight years, will doubtless infuse new life and increase the benefit of the trip. Edward, M. L. A., having just completed his course at Pacific University, will probably after a time pursue his professional studies at the East.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

John Williams; abusive language; fined $10.

A. Williams; drunk and disorderly; fined $10 which he paid.

Geo. Mansfield; drunk and disorderly; committed for 10 days.

Richard Ross and John Koentz; charged with assault and battery; each fined $30; paid.

When you wish to present a respectable appearance dress well. All the young and old men in the town consider that the late importations at Jos. Kohn's are the best they have seen. Kohn is always "up to snuff," and provides his patrons with the latest and best. Examine the stock.

Mrs. S. Lord will guarantee to check falling of the hair in from one to two weeks, and restore the grayest hair to its original color in one month. Refers, by permission, to Benj. Thomas, V. B. DeLashmutt and Mrs. H. B. Oatman. Parlors; First National Bank building. See advertisement.

Trade Dollars are not a legal tender, but Noble Whisky will always be acceptable when tendered to those who appreciate a premium beverage. H. Fleckenstein, 147 First street.

"Way up" coffee and lunches at Barnes', Central Market. Try 'em by all means.

It is the correct thing to look well dressed and in order to do as you should invest a moderate sum in the purchase of a neat suit, which can be obtained at Fishel & Roberts, who have just opened a fine assortment.

Peter Wilhelm, at the "Fountain," First and Ash streets, keeps things in a cozy shape. His billiard tables are much admired and the new Virginius table is a great favorite. Call and see him.

W. L. ADAMS, M. D., A. M., LL. D., corner of First and Salmon streets, is curing the most inveterate chronic diseases of all kinds at a low price, by medicated, electric lightning cream baths, and by combining the German and French with the American improved practice, mixed with a little common sense. His treatment is, in the main, entirely original, and works almost miracles, as his numerous patients will attest. A lady always in the office to assist in treating women.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

The following items of religious interest are collated from the Advocate and Sentinel:

Rev. R. [illegible] will preach at the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning next, May 7th.

Nearly 500 persons attend the Methodist Sunday schools of Portland and East Portland each Sabbath.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Blanchet, of Nesqually, will start on the 10th inst. on a pastoral visit to the Yakima Indian mission.

The regular annual meeting of the Oregon Tract Society, will be held in Portland at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., at 1 P. M., May 10.

On Sabbath next Rev. W. C. Chattin will preach in the East Portland M. E. church at 11 o'clock A. M., and Rev. R. Bentley at 7:30 P. M.

Wednesday evening the whole-souled friends at Forest Grove proposed a donation in favor of Rev. F. Elliott. We doubt not it was a pleasant and successful affair.

Rev. J. D. Eaton, the popular pastor of the Congregational church of this city, having resigned his pastorate, will leave by the outgoing steamer for the East, much to the regret of a large portion of the community.

On Sabbath next a Sunday school will be organized at Gaston, Forest Grove circuit. Under the inspiration of such Christian workers as Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaston the proposed Sabbath school cannot be other than a good success.

The third quarterly meeting exercises will be held at the Taylor-street Methodist church, on May 6th and 7th. Rev. P. M. Starr will conduct the service during the day, and administer the Sacrament after Sunday morning service.

Rev. Charles Richards, having finished his Easter missionary duties along the waters of Puget Sound, has gone to St. Rose's mission near Walla Walla, where he will remain for a couple of months, and where he hopes to erect a church at Frenchtown.

Last Sunday morning a large delegation of the St. Vincent de Paul Society approached Holy Communion in a body, thus manifesting their obedience to the spirit of their organization and crowning their charity with the wreath of religion.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.

Our regular correspondent at Vancouver under date of the 4th, writes:

County Commissioners' court in session this week.

C. H. Whitney was appointed county treasurer yesterday.

There is some talk of the Pacific hotel changing hands.

The officers of the Water company will meet this evening.

Fruit growers, or nurserymen, are very busy planting seed and roots.

The Columbia river is over three feet higher at this place than one year ago.

Mrs. J. D. Johnson, of Oregon City, spent a few days in this city this week.

Dick Stagart gets the contract for furnishing the U. S. A. at Fort Vancouver with beef.

Political matters are likely to wake up in this county soon, as the election is to come off after a time.

The County Commissioners have deferred the leasing of school lands on Mile Plain until August next.

The Good Templars are expecting to build a commodious hall in this city within the next few months.

Jas. Crawford, merchant, was awarded the contract, yesterday, for furnishing hay to the U. S. A. at Fort Vancouver.

We were glad to see Chaplain Van Horn out in his buggy yesterday, as he had been somewhat unwell for a few weeks.

The Good Templars are very prosperous in this place, which is owing to their enthusiastic efforts and good management.

The Good Templars of this place meet with those of Fourth Plain on Saturday next and will have a grand picnic some five miles north of this place.

M. Wintler, merchant, obtained the contract for furnishing the U. S. A. at Fort Vancouver with 1,500 cords of hard wood, and about 3,000 bushels of oats.

The County Commissioners, Messrs. Reed, Alexander and Hart, are among the solid men of the county, and are well calculated to advance the interests of their county.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Kohn is out in new mention. He proposes to entertain patrons as well if not better than any house in the city.

Complete Washer Machine is selling like hot cakes, because it gives good satisfaction. In fear of the big humbugs and imitations offered, the farmers hunt up the headquarters. So be sure and order at the office on First street, near Madison, next to McGinn's bakery.

Tom Moore compares love to a potato, "because it shoots from the eyes." "Or rather," "because it becomes all the less by paring."

Mr. M. Rosenblatt, the well known clothier, at 79 Front street, has opened a well selected stock of clothing, which includes new styles for youths, all very attractive. Call on him.

If you wish to learn how to make six dollars per day with name and address of parties making it, address W. F. Brayton, Oregon City.

IF THIS SHOULD MEET THE EYE of any one suffering from deafness, defective sight, nervous debility, or any other disease which has been improperly treated or pronounced incurable, they should at once consult Dr. Cleburne, of London, who is now visiting this city. Office hours: 3 P. M. to 8 P. M., Clarendon Hotel.

OREGON.

Chinook salmon are beginning to run up the river, and four of them were caught by the fishermen at Oregon City during the past week.

Search is being still kept up by relays of volunteers for the bodies of Absalom Smith and D. H. Morton, who were drowned in the Santiam on the 22d ult.

The following delegates have been elected by Oregon Lodge No. 3, I. O. O. F., Oregon City, to the Grand Lodge to be held at Salem on the 15th inst.: W. H. Pope, E. B. Fellows and M. C. Athey.

The Albany Democrat says: Thostockholders of the Astoria Farmer's Warehouse Company (many of whom reside in Linn county) have been notified that there will be a meeting of said stockholders at Astoria, May 28th, for the purpose of selling out the warehouse and grounds, and dividing the stock among the shareholders.

The municipal election at Oregon City last Monday, resulted in the choice of the following officers: Mayor, Thomas Charman; councilmen, Peter Paquet, J. R. Morton, A. J. Apperson, H. Cochran, C. P. Church, J. Logus, A. Weatherston; marshal, J. Hanson; treasurer, H. J. Harding; assessor and collector, T. A. Pope, city attorney, E. B. Clements. For recorder M. C. Athey and A. O. Yates, each received 92 votes, a tie.

The following returns have been made by Sheriff Apperson to the county court of Clackamas county for taxes for 1875: To amount as per tax book, 1875, $35,142 17; assessment made by sheriff, $783 37; total amount, $35,925 54. By amount of coin paid to county treasurer, as per receipts, $25,445 54; amount of county orders paid to treasurer, $8,620 30; deductions made by county court for errors and indebtedness, $614 04; delinquent list, $1,246 06; total amount, $35,925 54.

THE TURF.

J. Bomar, of Walla Walla, has matched Billy Nutts against Geo. Ross' Tom Benton, for a distance of 700 yards, for $200 a side, the race to take place at Bush's course, Saturday, May 13.

A Walla Walla exchange says: "Mr. W. L. Freeman, living on the Alpowai, is the owner of a Bellfounder colt that promises to outstrip all the previous get of that celebrated stallion. The colt is four years old, shows all the points of his sire, and is a half brother of Abbott's Pathfinder. The existence of this horse has scarcely been known, and yet we are assured that he is one of the most likely colts that Bellfounder has sired. He has never been trained, and consequently his true value is not as yet known."

MORE TESTIMONIALS.

We, the undersigned, have been treated by Dr. Halpruner for corns, and find him skillful in extracting and curing corns without pain or causing lameness. W. B. Cardwell, M. NOTICE TO THE SUFFERER.

I would inform the citizens of Portland and others suffering from "Hemorrhoids or Piles," that my stay in Portland is limited to a few days only, as I shall leave for Astoria on Wednesday, May 10th, and from there I shall visit other points on the coast—time of my return uncertain. As the original inventor of the "Wightman Process," I am perfectly competent to take charge and cure the above distressing complaint. Ladies desiring the treatment will find Mrs. Wightman always in attendance, who makes a specialty of female debility. Rooms, N. E. corner Stark and Fourth streets, Portland. P. O. box 247.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 6, 1876.

DISAPPOINTED ADVENTISTS.

The Lewiston, Me Journal contains the following A company of Lewiston Adventists a year since, under the lead of Elder Thurman a devoted disciple, fixed on a definite day for the end of the world but as the world did not see fit to end at that time the Elder called upon to make a more careful revision of his figures and his principles of interpretation Having done this Elder Thurman discovered that he had made a mistake of one year in his reckoning Fortunately that year was in our favor and in accordance with his investigations he gradually informed his flock that the night for the second coming of the Saviour would in all probability prove to be the night of April 1876 Accordingly quietly and unostentatiously, the devout flock, on Friday made ready for the sacred event Wakefield hall a little nook in Central Block was made ready for the momentous occasion There is a gallery room for a few spectators The faithful occupied the main floor The visitor to the hall was courteously shown a seat in the gallery only this caveat was entered, that no one should enter who came to make sport There were about thirty persons present—all with a devout and becoming behavior The ceremony was solemn and impressive. One of their number states that more would have been present but for the bad traveling None were admitted to the hall after 7 30 o'clock A table covered with snowy white linen was spread in the hall on which the tokens of the eucharist were spread The bread was unleavened and seven days old The table was surrounded by settees Elder Thurman presided and conducted the service Scripture was read a hymn was sung and the Elder gave directions to the flock The settees were first turned back to the table. The sisters occupied one bench the brethren another, sitting back to them on the opposite side of the table Following the example of Jesus the Elder removed his coat and girt himself with a linen towel He then poured water into a basin and washed the feet of one of the disciples Then the disciples washed one another's feet—the sisters performing the rite one for another Then the Passover supper was eaten An interesting social service followed the supper which ended at 10 o'clock Each person related his experience, his hope and his faith as any Christian might It was now well along in the evening and no sign appeared to confirm the Elder's prediction Yet the good Advent people waited on the Lord waited to see him coming in the clouds of heaven The clock in the neighboring bell tower strikes one short of midnight. Elder Thurman's faith wavers At 11 30 the lights are extinguished and the faithful ones go home. As ever, true to the almanac, old Sol broke over the world this morning. And the time is not yet! Elder Thurman, on being consulted on Saturday, confessed that the failure of several appointed dates for the final catastrophe has somewhat weakened his confidence in his arithmetic, but of this he is positive that the second coming of the Lord will occur on Passover Day. The Elder has a carefully prepared chronology of the world and has felt that if this last appointment was not a success, he should leave the date with the Lord altogether He is constrained to see that he is in error, and he frankly confesses that he cannot set any further time for the above named catastrophe He takes his figures from Daniel The world he says, was created in his view, 6 000 years ago about this time of year.'

PRESIDENTIAL SCANDALS

The personal defamation of candidates, coming from the inner circles of the several active competitors, is unexampled Blaine has been most assailed because most feared by his associates in the race. A railroad story is published at Morton's home, calling upon Blaine to explain how $64,000 came into his possession, and although it is answered in a manner that would satisfy any fair jury the friends of other candidates, shrug their shoulders, look deprecatingly, and suggest that their candidate must not only be innocent but above the reach of suspicion Next he is charged with hurrying his wife to an early grave by ill treatment, but as his first and only wife is yet living and has been his faithful helpmate in climbing up the thorny pathway of fame, the charge has little semblance of probability. Then he is accused as a Catholic, because his mother was born, lived and died in that Church, although his Protestant convictions are well known to all who know anything about the man, and the latest charge presents him as a smuggler of silks, velvets and other furbelows, across the Canada line last summer—just the sort of a thing a Presidential candidate of average intelligence would do while canvassing for a nomination Morton's crimes have been too general, and, indeed, universal, to be specific about them but there is little in the decalogue short of murder that has not been woven into his life, and even murder has been vaguely intimated Conkling is assailed as a vain fool in his Presidential aspirations, rather than as an aggressively bad man, and those who are hammering to knock the pins from under him know well that there is no more successful plan of attack than to post him as a strutting peacock, who doesn't take note of the common fowls in the political barnyard Bristow is a speculator in mules, Jewell in postoffice contracts Hartranft in state war claims Wheeler in railroads, and so on as far as the list of possible candidates can be extended Considering that this is the Centennial year and that the peoples of the world will be our guests wouldn't it be well to have a truce between the growers of scandal, at least until the Fourth of July [illegible] stowed away in the past? What say the [illegible] Cincinnati belligerents to a general peace conference?—Philadelphia Times

Bristow's Other Thousand—Washington correspondence of the Boston Journal says so much has been said about expensive establishments, and Mr. Bristow's known wealth is so great, that [illegible] was surprised at the very modest [illegible] selected by the secretary of the Treasury, and there is floating about a very amusing little anecdote which illustrates Mr Bristow's quiet fashion of settling a question When seeking for a residence last fall he found a very desirable house already furnished and, after looking it over, inquired the rent 'Seven thousand dollars' answered the agent Mr. Bristow said nothing but seemed considering some important matter in utter abstraction. At last, a gentleman with him growing impatient demanded to know his decision 'Of seven' said the secretary, 'seven thousand I think the agent said' 'Yes,' said his friend. 'Well,' responded the secretary, 'I was wondering what I could possibly do with the other thousand'" Of course you know the secretary's salary is only eight thousand per year That seven thousand dollar house was not rented but you will find Mrs Bristow receiving in very pleasant parlors on K street, and when you have talked to her five minutes you won't know or care what the rooms are like or how much anything costs. There is nothing in the least ostentatious about the menage, and though Mrs Bristow dresses richly, there is never anything conspicuous in her toilettes Her rare loveliness of character wins her the best affection of every one

The Dana controversy has so stirred up the Republican party in Massachusetts that it is doubtful now whether the larger part of the organization is not most accurately classified on the Independent voter's swelling party. The Boston Transcript says all chance for any Presidential candidate connected with Grantism is hopeless, and adds 'The amount of independent voting likely under certain contingencies may be perfectly appalling to [illegible] politicians. Several of the prominent candidates named would immediately put Massachusetts into the category of doubtful States. But there are candidates whom the instinct of the people points out as the men for the crisis To such nominees the other party could not make an effective opposition It is a singular fact that at a Democratic meeting the other night at New Haven the name of Secretary Bristow elicited repeated cheering Such is the reception accorded to prominent citizens of approved honesty and integrity at the present time There are many such in the Republican ranks A presidential nominee of a different stamp will not only consign the party to default but to merited disgrace'—N Y Tribune

Towards the close of a ball in Paris, a young lady who was passionately fond of dancing was asked by her mother to prepare for the carriage 'Only this last waltz' entreated the young girl, and she glided away with her partner Suddenly he cried out in horror The young girl had died while in his arms and he was waltzing with a corpse

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

THURSDAY EVENING May 4 1876

Gold in New York, 113

Legal Tenders in Portland—buying 88½, selling 89¼

Business at the banks and among the merchants has been so quiet that but little variation can be given to our report of the financial situation from day to day. There is some gradual increase in the demand for accommodations as the spring progresses, and rates are a little firmer [illegible] but no decided change has occurred and as there is no probability of any greatly enlarged demand during the balance of the season we may not look for much stricter terms than are now ruling The volume of capital demanded by the grain trade for our export business has very materially diminished while that for the salmon trade has increased All applications, however for financial aid as yet are promptly met. The feeling is hopeful and business men generally are preparing for a moderately active season

There have been an increased number of purchases of general merchandise in the market during the week so far, and their orders and selections indicate an expectation on their part of at least an average trade during the remainder of the spring and the summer The interior merchants as a rule are quite as prompt as usual in making their remittances and in many cases they buy for cash or its equivalent in produce and so are able to secure stocks on the most favorable terms It is easily demonstrated how a merchant whose accounts do not bear interest by being allowed to run month after month can undersell those whose bills show interest accrued. Of course the wholesale houses must charge more for the goods when they wait for the pay without interest and the retailer must sell higher when he buys on credit and pays interest. It is therefore policy on the part of the merchant to get as nearly as possible into a condition to be able to pay cash as it gives him an advantage over his competitors in business which he cannot otherwise have This idea is being more generally acted on this spring than usual and we think a better basis and more permanency to the business of the country will result from it.

Miscellaneous.

The Nautical Gazette publishes a list of prominent ocean disasters since January 1876 embracing 17 steamers and 50 ships the number of lives known to have been lost by the disasters exceed 1 900 The Gazette requests those who can supply fuller information on this subject to forward it to their office in New York

The Commercial News of San Francisco says 'The large ship Samuel Watt has just sailed from Astoria to Liverpool with a draught of 23½ feet The draught of vessels loading at that port has been gradually becoming greater until now it seems that vessels of almost any draught can cross the Columbia river bar in safety We would advise our friends at Astoria and Portland however that some improvement might be made in the system of towage as very many complain of unnecessary delays in passing in and out

Liverpool Wheat Market.

The following is our special cablegram of wheat quotations direct from Liverpool

LIVERPOOL May 4 1876

OREGONIAN Portland To day's Liverpool wheat market closed with Oregon wheat ex warehouse quotable at 10s [illegible]d per cental The market is depressed HENRY JUMP & SONS

The foregoing corresponds with the regular press dispatches and shows a decline of 1d since last week's report Proportionately the quotation for Oregon cargoes afloat would be 9s 6d@10s 1[illegible]

Domestic Produce

The ship River Lune and bark Thorndike having completed their cargoes there are now here to load only the Caller On and Wave Queen, and their cargoes are reported to be in sight and they are promised quick dispatch The market for wheat and flour during the period under review has been quite as void of life as before and aside from a moderate local trade and some shipments of flour to San Francisco transactions are unusually quiet It seems likely that but little more will be done this season advices from San Francisco and Liverpool denoting a depressed condition of the markets at those points.

The receipts of oats have fallen off and it is fair to presume that the surplus in the interior is very nearly exhausted The outgoing steamer carries only about 800 bushels to San Francisco Hay is in ample supply but prices are kept up to winter rates notwithstanding we are nearing the middle of May Potatoes are duller than last week and prices though nominally unchanged are weakening Some receipts of new California are noticed in the market. Provisions remain firm at last week's quotations and the demand is very fair Dairy products are tending downwards Apples and other seasonable domestic fruits are in good demand at current rates but the trade is light as only a very few varieties will bear shipping at this time of the year Hides, wool, etc, are very dull sale and the aspect of the market is anything but bright in its indications for the future The San Francisco market for wool is reported by latest advices to be marked by a little more activity

POND'S EXTRACT

"Hear, for I will speak of excellent things"

POND'S EXTRACT The great Vegetable Pain Destroyer. Has been in use over thirty years, and for cleanliness and prompt curative virtues cannot be excelled

CHILDREN. No family can afford to be without Pond's Extract. Accidents, Bruises Contusions, Cuts, Sprains, are relieved almost instantly by external application. Promptly relieves pains of Burns, Scalds Excoriations, Chafings, Old Sores, Boils, Felons, Corns, etc Arrests inflammation, reduces swellings, stops bleeding, removes discoloration and heals rapidly

FEMALE WEAKNESSES. It always relieves pain in the back and loins fullness and pressing pain in the head nausea vertigo

IN LEUCORRHŒA it has no equal. All kinds of ulcerations to which ladies are subject are promptly cured. Fuller details in book accompanying each bottle.

PILES—blind or bleeding meet prompt relief and ready cure No case however chronic or obstinate can long resist its regular use

VARICOSE VEINS. It is the only sure cure

KIDNEY DISEASES. It has no equal for permanent cure

BLEEDING from any cause. For this it is a specific. It has saved hundreds of lives when all other remedies failed to arrest bleeding from nose, stomach, lungs, and elsewhere.

TOOTHACHE, Earache, Neuralgia and Rheumatism are all alike relieved and often permanently cured

PHYSICIANS of all schools who are acquainted with Pond's Extract of Witch Hazel recommend it in their practice. We have letters of commendation from hundreds of Physicians many of whom order it for use in their own practice In addition to the foregoing they order its use for Swellings of all kinds Quinsy, Sore Throat, Inflamed Tonsils, simple and chronic Diarrhœa Catarrh (for which it is a specific Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Stings of Insects, Musquitoes, etc Chapped Hands, Face, and indeed all manner of skin diseases

TOILET USE. Removes Soreness, Roughness and Smarting; heals Cuts, Eruptions and Pimples. It revives, invigorates and refreshes while wonderfully improving the Complexion

TO FARMERS—Pond's Extract. No Stock Breeder, no Livery Man can afford to be without it. It is used by all the leading Livery Stables, Street Railroads and first Horsemen in New York City. It has no equal for Sprains, Harness or Saddle Chafings, Stiffness, Scratches, Swellings, Cuts, Lacerations, Bleedings, Pneumonia, Colic, Diarrhœa, Chills, Colds, &c. Its range of action is wide and the relief it affords is so prompt that it is invaluable in every Farm-yard as well as in every Farm-house. Let it be tried once, and you will never be without it.

CAUTION! Pond's Extract has been imitated. The genuine article has the words Pond's Extract blown in each bottle. It is prepared by the only persons living who ever knew how to prepare it properly. Refuse all other preparations of Witch Hazel. This is the only article used by Physicians, and in the hospitals of this country and Europe.

HISTORY and Uses of Pond's Extract, in pamphlet form, sent free on application to

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 5, 1876

DISAPPOINTED ADVENTISTS.

The Louisville, Me Journal contains the following A company of Lewiston Adventists a year since under the lead of Elder Thurston, a devoted disciple fixed a definite day for the end of the world, but as the world did not see fit to end at that time he felt called upon to make a more careful figures and his points of interpretation. Having done this Elder Thurston discovered that he had made a mistake of one year in his reckoning fortunately that year was in our favor and in accordance with his investigations he gradually informed his flock that the night for the second coming of the Saviour would in all probability prove to be the night of April 1876. Accordingly quietly and unostentatiously, the devout flock on Friday made ready for the sacred event. Wakefield hall a little nook in Central block was made ready for the momentous occasion. There is a gallery room for a few spectators. The faithful occupied the main floor. The visitor to the hall was courteously shown a seat in the gallery only this caveat was entered, that no one should enter who came to make sport. There were about thirty persons present—all with a devout and becoming behavior. The ceremony was solemn and impressive. One of their number states that more would have been present but for the bad traveling. None were admitted to the hall after 7 30 o'clock. A table covered with snowy white linen was spread in the hall, on which the tokens of the eucharist were spread. The bread was unleavened and seven days old. The table was surrounded by sisters. Elder Thurman presided and conducted the service. Scripture was read a hymn was sung and the Elder gave directions to the flock. The settees were first turned back to the table. The sisters occupied one bench the brethren another, sitting back to them on the opposite side of the table. Following the example of Jesus the Elder removed his coat and girt himself with a linen towel. He then poured water into a basin and washed the feet of one of the disciples. Then the disciples washed one another's feet—the sisters performing the rite one for another. Then the Passover supper was eaten. An interesting social service followed the supper, which ended at 10 o'clock. Each person related his experience his hope and his faith as any Christian might. It was now well along in the evening, and no sign appeared to confirm the Elder's prediction. Yet the good Advent. He waited on the Lord, waited to see him coming in the clouds of heaven. The clock in the neighboring bell tower strikes one, but a of midnight. Elder Thurman's faith wavers. At 1 30 the lights are extinguished and the faithful ones go home. As ever true to the almanac, old Sol broke over the world, this morning. And the time is not yet. Elder Thurman on being consulted on Saturday, confessed that the failure of several appointed dates for the final catastrophe has somewhat weakened his confidence in his arithmetic, but of this he is positive that the second coming of the Lord will occur on Passover Day. The Elder has a carefully prepared chronology of the world and has felt that if this last appointment was not a [illegible], he would leave the date with the Lord altogether. He is constrained to see that he is in error, and he frankly confesses that he cannot set any further time for the above named catastrophe. He takes his figures from Daniel. The world, he says was created in his view, 6,000 years ago, about this time of year.

PRESIDENTIAL SCANDALS.

The personal defamation of candidates, coming from the inner circles of the several active competitors, is unexampled. Blaine has been most assailed because most feared by his associates in the race. A railroad story is published at Morton's home, calling upon Blaine to explain how $64,000 came into his [illegible] You, and although it is answered in a [illegible] that would satisfy any fair jury, the friends of other candidates, shrug their shoulders, look deprecatingly, and suggest that their candidate must not only be innocent but above the reach of suspicion. Next he is charged with hurrying his wife to an early grave by ill treatment, but as his first and only wife is yet living and has been his faithful helpmate in climbing up the thorny path way of fame the charge has little semblance of probability. "Then he is accused as a Catholic, because his mother was born lived and died, in that Church, although his Protestant convictions are well known to all who know anything about the man, and the latest charge presents him as a smuggler of silks, velvets and other fabrics, across the Canada line last summer just the sort of a thing a Presidential candidate of average intelligence would do while canvassing for a nomination. Morton's crimes have been too general, and, in deed antiquated, to be specific about them but there is little in the decalogue short of murder that has not been woven into his life, and, even murder has been vaguely intimated. Conkling is assailed as a vain fool in his Presidential aspirations, rather than as an aggressively bad man, and those who are hammering to knock the pins from under him know well that there is no more successful plan of [illegible] than to post him as a strutting peacock who doesn't take note of the common fowls in the political barnyard. Bristow is a speculator in mules, Jewell in postoffice contracts, Hartranft in state war claims, Wheeler in railroads, and so on as far as the list of possible candidates can be extended. Consider ing that this is the Centennial year, and that the peoples of the world will be our guests, wouldn't it be well to have a truce between the armies of scandal, at least until the Fourth [illegible] stowed away in the past? What say the rival Cincinnati belligerents to a 'Centennial peace conference'?—Philadelphia Times

[illegible] Bristow's Household —Washington correspondence of the Boston Journal says so much has been said about expensive establishments, and Mrs. Bristow's known wealth is so great, that every one was surprised at the very modest [illegible] selected by the secretary of the [illegible], and there is floating about a very amusing little anecdote which illustrates Mr. Bristow's quiet fashion of settling a question. When seeking for a residence last fall he found a very desirable house already furnished, and, after looking it over, inquired the rent "Seven thousand dollars" answered the [illegible] Mr. Bristow said nothing but seemed considering some important matter in utter abstraction. At last, a gentleman with him growing impatient, demanded to know his decision. "Oh yes" said the secretary, "seven thousand, I think the agent said" "Yes," said his friend. "Well," responded the secretary, "I was wondering what I could possibly do with the other thousand" Of course you [illegible] the Secretary's salary is only eight thousand per year. That seven thousand dollar house was not rented, but you will find Mrs. Bristow receiving in very pleasant parlors on K street, and when you have talked to her five minutes you won't know or care what the rooms are like or how much anything costs. There is nothing in the least ostentatious about the average, and though Mrs. Bristow dresses richly, there is never anything conspicuous in her toilettes. Her rare loveliness of character wins her the best affection of every one.

The Dana controversy has so stirred up the Republican party in Massachusetts that it is doubtful now whether the larger part of the organization is not soon accurately classified on the Independent voter's swelling party. The Boston Transcript says all chance for any Presidential candidate connected with Grantism is hopeless, and adds "The amount of independent voting likely under certain contingencies may be perfectly appalling to hack politicians. Several of the prominent candidates named would immediately put Massachusetts into the category of 'doubtful States.' But there are candidates whom the instinct of the people points out as the men for the crisis. To such nominees the other party could not make an effective opposition" It is a singular fact that at a Democratic meeting the other night at New Haven the name of Secretary Bristow elicited repeated cheering. Such is the reception accorded to prominent citizens of approved honesty and integrity at the present time. There are many such in the Republican ranks. A presidential nominee of a different stamp will not only consign the party to default but to merited disgrace.—N Y Tribune

Towards the close of a ball in Paris, a young lady who was passionately fond of dancing, was asked by her mother to prepare for the carriage "Only this last waltz" entreated the young girl, and she glided away with her partner. Suddenly he cried out in horror. The young girl had died while in his arms and he was waltzing with a corpse.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

OREGONIAN OFFICE,
THURSDAY EVENING May 4 1876

Gold in New York 113

Legal Tenders in Portland buying 86½, selling 89¼.

Business at the banks and among the merchants [illegible] on so quietly that but little variation can be given to our report of the financial situation from day to day. There is some gradual increase in the demand for accommodations as the spring progresses, and rates are a little stiffened to harden but no decided change has occurred and as there is no probability of any greatly enlarged [illegible] during the balance of the season we may not look for much stricter terms than are now ruling. The volume of capital demanded by the grain and flour export business has very materially diminished while that for the salmon trade has increased. All applications, however for financial aid as yet are promptly met. The feeling is hopeful and business men generally are preparing for a moderately active season.

There have been an increased number of purchasers of general merchandise in the market during the week so far and their orders and selections indicate an expectation on their part of at least an average trade during the remainder of the spring and the summer. The interior merchants, as a rule are quite as prompt as usual in making their remittances, and in many cases they buy for cash or its equivalent in produce and so are able to secure stocks on the most favorable terms. It is easily demonstrated how a merchant whose accounts do not bear interest by being allowed to run month after month can undersell those whose bills show interest accrued. Of course the wholesale houses must charge more for the goods when they wait for the pay without interest and the retailer must sell higher when he buys on credit and pays interest. It is therefore policy on the part of the merchant to get as nearly as possible into a condition to be able to pay cash as it gives him an advantage over his competitors in business which he cannot otherwise have. This idea is being more generally acted on this spring than usual and we think a better basis and more permanency to the business of the country will result from it.

Miscellaneous.

The Nautical Gazette publishes a list of prominent ocean disasters since January 16th embracing 176 steamers and 50 ships the number of lives known to have been lost by the disasters exceeds 1000. The Gazette requests those who can supply fuller information on this subject to forward it to their office in New York.

The Commercial News of San Francisco says: The large ship Samuel Watts has just sailed from Astoria to Liverpool with a draught of 23½ feet. The draught of vessels loading at that port has been gradually becoming greater until now it seems that vessels of almost any draught can cross the Columbia river bar in safety. We would advise our friends at Astoria and Portland however that some improvement might be made in the system of towage as very many complaints of unnecessary delays in passing in and out.

Three quarters of the ship Pride of the Port, 1 1[illegible] tons now at Burrard Inlet, has been sold on private terms and she will be commanded by Captain [illegible] Sawyer late of the ship Orpheus.

There were 18 tons of ore taken from the Consolidated Virginia mine last week. The bullion shipments for the fiscal month to the 23d aggregated $1 314,518.

The number of vessels sailing from Oregon with wheat and flour for Europe during this harvest year is [illegible] of which [illegible] have arrived out leaving [illegible] yet to be heard from.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

The following is our special cablegram of wheat quotations direct from Liverpool

LIVERPOOL May 4 1876

OREGONIAN Portland: To-day's Liverpool wheat market closed with Oregon [illegible] ex warehouse quotable at 10s 2d per cental. The market is depressed
HENRY JUMP & SONS

The foregoing corresponds with the regular press dispatches and shows a decline of 1d since last week's report. Proportionately the quotations for Oregon cargoes afloat would be 9s 4d@9s 1d.

Domestic Produce.

The ship River Lune and bark Thorndike having completed their cargoes there are now here to load only the Caller Ou and Wave Queen, and their cargoes are reported to be in sight and they are promised quick dispatch. The market for wheat and flour during the period under review has been quite as void of life as before and aside from a moderate local trade and some shipments of flour to San Francisco transactions are unusually quiet. It seems likely that but little more will be done this season advices from San Francisco and Liverpool denoting a depressed condition of the markets at those points.

The receipts of oats have fallen off and it is fair to presume that the surplus in the interior is very nearly exhausted. The outgoing steamer carried only about 800 bushels to San Francisco. Hay is in ample supply but prices are kept up to winter rates notwithstanding we are nearing the middle of May. Potatoes are duller than last week and prices though nominally unchanged, are weakening. Some receipts of new California are noticed in the market. Provisions remain firm at last week's quotations and the demand is very fair. Dairy products are tending downwards. Apples and other seasonable domestic fruits are in good demand at current rates but the trade is light, as only a very few varieties will bear shipping at this time of the year. Hides wool, etc., are very dull sale and the aspect of the market is anything but bright in its indications for the future. The San Francisco market for wool is reported by latest advices to be marked by a little more activity.

POND'S EXTRACT

"Hear, for I will speak of excellent things."

POND'S EXTRACT—The great Vegetable Pain Destroyer. Has been in use over thirty years, and for cleanliness and prompt curative virtues cannot be excelled.

CHILDREN. No family can afford to be without Pond's Extract. Accidents, Bruises, Contusions, Cuts, Sprains, are relieved almost instantly by external application. Promptly relieves pains of Burns, Scalds, Excoriations, Chafings, Old Sores, Boils, Felons, Corns, etc. Arrests inflammation reduces swellings, stops bleeding, removes discoloration and heals rapidly.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES. It always relieves pain in the back and loins fullness and pressing pain in the head nausea vertigo.

IN LEUCORRHŒA it has no equal. All kinds of ulcerations to which ladies are subject are promptly cured. Fuller details in book accompanying each bottle.

PILES—blind or bleeding meet prompt relief and ready cure. No case, however chronic or obstinate can long resist its regular use.

VARICOSE VEINS. It is the only sure cure.

KIDNEY DISEASES. It has no equal for permanent cure.

BLEEDING from any cause. For this it is a specific. It has saved hundreds of lives when all other remedies failed to arrest bleeding from nose, stomach, lungs, and elsewhere.

TOOTHACHE, Earache, Neuralgia and Rheumatism are all alike relieved and often permanently cured.

PHYSICIANS of all schools who are acquainted with Pond's Extract of Witch Hazel recommend it in their practice. We have letters of commendation from hundreds of Physicians many of whom order it for use in their own practice. In addition to the foregoing, they order its use for Swellings of all kinds, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Inflamed Tonsils, simple and chronic Diarrhœa, Catarrh (for which it is a specific), Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Stings of Insects, Musquitoes, etc. Chapped Hands, Face, and indeed all manner of skin diseases.

TOILET USE. Removes Soreness, Roughness and Smarting; heals Cuts, Eruptions and Pimples. It revives, invigorates and refreshes, while wonderfully improving the Complexion.

TO FARMERS—Pond's Extract. No Stock Breeder, no Livery Man can afford to be without it. It is used by all the leading Livery Stables, Street Railroads and first Horsemen in New York City. It has no equal for Sprains, Harness or Saddle Chafings, Stiffness, Scratches, Swellings, Cuts, Lacerations, Bleedings, Pneumonia, Colic, Diarrhœa, Chills, Colds, &c. Its range of action is wide and the relief it affords is so prompt that it is invaluable in every Farm-yard as well as in every Farm-house. Let it be tried once and you will never be without it.

CAUTION! Pond's Extract has been imitated. The genuine article has the words Pond's Extract blown in each bottle. It is prepared by the only persons living who ever knew how to prepare it properly. Refuse all other preparations of Witch Hazel. This is the only article used by Physicians and in the hospitals of this country and Europe.

HISTORY and Uses of Pond's Extract, in pamphlet form, sent free on application to

LAND FOR IMMIGRANTS.

Choice Farms for Sale.

4,000 ACRES, IN QUANTITIES TO SUIT PURCHASERS.

230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem all under cultivation and suitable for grain or vegetables.

940 Acres four miles southeast of Salem on the railroad with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county with fine springs consisting in part of the old Hee tor donation claim on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety four bushels per acre grain weighed and ground chained by Mr Alfred Stanton of Salem.

3,700 Acres of prairie and light brush land, with timber for farming purposes bounded by the Willamette River for four miles beautiful lake on the east boat landing all along the river commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $15 to $25 per acre. This land will all be immediately resurveyed and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage and I can offer any person or persons or colony of persons desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages as well as most favorably located with respect to markets greater advantages on more favorable terms, than they can ever expect to realize again.
